PUZZLE NO. 705

A LITTLE YAPPIN'

by Nellie Crump

Anxiety for Sick Mother.

Remember the telephone call from Anchorage, Alaska, recent ly reported in this column? Perhaps you are as curious as myself to know what a rail such as that cost. I asked a member of the family and was informed by Frances Grimes, to whom the call was made, that the fee was $22.00. Brother! But it was worth every dollar spent.

When Bad Luck Comes.

Was tending to my own business when two blasts from the fire siren rent the quiet of a beautiful afternoon last week. I looked up but did not see anything because I did not look in the right direction. When I heard a neighbor screaming at her little boy to come back here. I went out on the porch and she screamed at me! A car or two whizzed by and Police Chief Purvis took his stand at the corner of my yard (the next part of the Army of Occupation was removed by the time the chore having served in the army for the past nine year. My wife remarked that it was a fortunate girl several months ago that she had not looked both ways before she crossed the street. When
