The Town of Lexington

James Flint spent most of the month of December in Lexington from which he made his headquarters for the remainder of the year. He noted that the population of Lexington in 1780 was 1,000, which is more than Fallston in 1847. The population of Lexington in 1780 was 1,000, which is more than Fallston in 1847. Chapter IV (Cont.)

After Wells came to Allerton in 1810 to check on the work of Thomas Kirkbride. The land was rich, but the farmers preferred to get some one else to raise their crops. Kirkbride was a man of a different stripe. After talking with the farmers, he decided to stay and raise their crops.

THOUGHT FOR MEMORIAL DAY

"IN THE YEARS FOLLOWING WORLD WAR II, WE LEARNED THAT WE MUST ASSUME WORLD RESPONSIBILITIES OR PERISH OFF THE EARTH, AND THAT IF WE WENT DOWN THE CONCEPT OF FREEDOM ON WHICH CIVILIZATION IN THE WEST WAS BUILT WOULD GO DOWN WITH US! WE LEARNED THAT FOR A PEOPLE, AS FOR A MAN, THE ROAD TO GREATNESS IS VERY HARD"

WE HAD A GOOD TIME TOO. The front door opened early this morning. The first person to get up was the little boy. He was the first to get up. He was the first to get up. He was the first to get up.
