

HUNTING SEASONS

Frankfort — A five-day gun deer hunting season has been set for Kentucky this fall with the opening date being November 27 and ending on December 1. This is a one-day extension over the previous year. In addition, six new counties have been added to the 43 of last year but in those six new counties only one day hunting, December 1, will be permitted. The counties to be opened for the first time are: Adair, Logan, Marion, Hancock, Taylor and Warren. The two-day season will open on October 15 and continue through November 15 in all counties opened. The limit to be harvested this year will be one deer of either sex for both the gun and archery season, according to the regulations of the Department.

Management areas to be opened to deer hunting are: Pine Mountain, Ford Area, Robinson Forest, De W. Lake Area, Knob State Forest and Camp Breckinridge in Union county. A two-day season, November 23 and 24, has been set for the Western Kentucky Management Area.

The Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission, in cooperation with U.S. Army officials has set two week-ends of deer hunting for Fort Knox. They are November 23 and 24 and November 30 and December 1. For Fort Campbell the weekend to be opened for deer hunting are: October 26-27, November 23, November 30, November 16.

Again this year the state has been divided into two zones for squirrel hunters with a split season in each. The Eastern Zone opens on August 31 and continues through October 31 and reopens on November 21 and continues through December 10. In the Western Zone the initial season opens on August 15 and continues through October 31; reopens on November 21 and continues through December 2. The bag and possession limits are unchanged. A special squirrel season has been set for Kentucky Woodlands National Wildlife Refuge. It opens on September 16 and continues through September 21; reopens on September 23 and continues through September 28. Management areas to be open to squirrels are: West Kentucky Area, Ballard County Area, and Central Kentucky Area where the season will open on August 15 and continue through October 15.

The season for quail, rabbits and furbers opens on November 21 and continues through January 29. A special quail season opening on December 15 and continuing through January 29 has been set for the following management areas: Dewey Lake, Pine Mountain, Robinson Forest and Ford Management Area.

A training season for roon dogs was set for September 1 through October 21, reopening on January 21 and continuing through February 28. A shake-out season, during which dogs may be taken with traps only, opens on October 1 and continues through November 20. The take season for furbers opens on November 21 and continues through January 19.

A wild turkey season opens on a selected area in Cumberland National Forest on November 1 and continues through November 30. During this season turkeys of either sex may be taken and the same areas

APHIDS AND CUTWORMS
MAY HIT RURAL CROPS
Kentucky farmers may run into trouble this season from cutworms and aphids in tobacco crops.

R. L. Miller, U.K. Extension Service entomologist, says some reports have been received of cutworm cutting plants off at the stalk near the ground line. Spot treatment with 50 percent strength DDT dust will control the pest.

The material should be applied on the stalk and on the soil around the stalk. Nearby grassy areas also could be treated; cutworms probably are moving from those areas now.

Cold weather earlier this spring apparently encouraged aphids, Miller says. If the present level of infestation continues, this could be a bad aphid-year in tobacco.

He recommends treating fields with a mixture of the 50 percent strength DDT wettable powder and the 50 percent Thiodan wettable powder. One quart of the DDT powder and a half-pound of Thiodan (mixed together in a spray) will cover an acre.

The mixture will control aphids and flea beetles, as well as surface-feeding cutworms and other insects. Thorough coverage of the plants is essential. Use water for the mixture. Cover plants lightly with the spray.

THE CHILDREN HOUR
Six little children went out to play.
One jumped in the river and swam away.
The next one ran home to tell his Mom.
"Hurry," he said, "And go get Tom."
The rest stayed in the field and stayed all day.
They forgot the time when they stayed all day.
The Kentucky Manager

MAY
I always liked the month of May.
People are always so cheerful.
Bees are humming and birds are singing.
The bell in the church is softly ringing.
Flowers are blooming.
Airplanes are zooming.
People are talking.
Children are walking.
The sun is out.
Plants will sprout.
Children will play.
And that's like the month of May.

NIGHT
The stars at night.
The moon so bright.
To give us light.
My what a sight.
On this summer night.
—Owen Barnes

BOYS
Boys like to play with balls.
Girls like to play with dolls.
I have a doll named Sue.
And she looks just like you.
She has a way of saying "Boo!"
That means she wants to play with you.

SELECTIVE SERVICE
QUESTION: I am 22 years old, single, and have a contract to teach in the school year 1963-64, and I eligible for a deferment?
ANSWER: If your selective service file is documented with a statement from the Board of Education with respect to your employment as a teacher, the local board will give serious consideration to granting an occupational deferment (Class II-A).
QUESTION: I am classified 1D, under 28 years of age, and have no dependents. Can I volunteer for induction through my local board?
ANSWER: You may volunteer through your own local board. After you have been found acceptable by the Armed Forces Examining Station you will be processed for induction. Since you are now a member of the Armed Forces you may apply for active duty.
