

Talking Books

It has been brought to the attention of this newspaper, that there are numerous elderly persons in Nicholas County, with eyesight so poor or entirely blind as to cause their lives to be shut out of the world today.

Upon investigation we have found help for these people. The Library For The Blind, 417 Congress Street, Cincinnati 2, Ohio, will send books, plays, the Bible, music and numerous other literature to these people.

The library will also furnish the record player as well as the records. If you have a loved one or know of anyone who would enjoy "Talking Books" this would be the answer to a great human need. It would certainly be a most charitable project for any one of the numerous clubs in Carlisle and Nicholas County to bring hours of pleasure to these people.

Mr. Warren Fisher, Editor Carlisle Mercury

I want to take this moment of expressing the appreciation of both the Nicholas County Board of Education and myself for the publication of the survey for the NICHOLAS COUNTY SCHOOL FACILITIES SURVEY as a public service in the Carlisle Mercury.

When the two districts merged, 2 conditions were that we would make a study of the needs of the schools and seek the guidance and help of the Department of Education in developing a better system of schools. I hope that each citizen will make a careful study of the survey and its recommendations and will keep a copy of the survey for future references.

You are to be highly commended for rendering this public service and for publishing this report. Again I want to add my personal thanks for the publication which I feel will help the public understand the status of their schools according to the survey by the Department of Education.

Very truly yours, Raymond J. Wesley Superintendent of the Nicholas County Schools

Braman, Okla.

Dear Mr. Fisher,

Enclosed you will find a check for the Mercury for another year. We left Ky. in 1960 and then been a long time, but I still call it home and enjoy having the paper each week to hear of what friends and relatives are still ahead.

Infectious hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver, especially in children, but it can also affect adults. It is a virus disease usually accompanied by fever, vomiting, abdominal pain, loss of appetite, and jaundice. School children between the ages of five and nine are most vulnerable; however, the disease is frequently more prolonged and severe in adults.

Hepatitis may be spread by inadequate sewage facilities, poor drainage, polluted water supplies, and personal contact with an infected person. After exposure to the disease, 10 days to three months may be required for it to develop. Infected persons may spread the disease to others several days before symptoms appear.

Hepatitis Warning

Although the number of reported cases of infectious hepatitis in Kentucky is down 40% from last year, there still remain a number of problem areas. And the disease can be accomplished by maintaining a high standard of cleanliness, both by the patient and persons in contact with him. Since an epidemic of hepatitis frequently breaks out in schools, superintendents, principals, teachers, and parents should insist on sanitary classrooms, school rest rooms, and playgrounds, and good personal hygiene among the students.

"If the disease or even exposure is suspected, a physician should be called immediately."

Nicholas Debaters Win Trophies

By Paula Guthrie

Both Judy Mitchell and Robert Talbert brought home trophies when the Nicholas County High School "Play House 64" speech students and debaters returned from the Mason-Dixon Speech Tournament at New Castle, Saturday. Elizabeth Clay received a third place award.

Participating with hundreds of students in the elimination rounds of individual events, the three students entered the finals with Judy Mitchell winning the second place trophy in Oratorical Declaration, Robert Talbert was awarded the second place trophy in Prose Reading and Elizabeth Clay received third place in Poetry Reading.

Competing in nine debates, Nicholas won six, lost two and tied one. James Boyd and O. K. Curry defeated Paducah, and Butler of Louisville and tied Bowling Green. Brenda Bach and Robert Talbert lost one but defeated Clark County and Assumption of Louisville. Judy Mitchell and John Sharp lost to St. Xavier of Louisville and defeated Assumption of Louisville and Owensboro. Each of the three Nicholas teams debated both affirmative and negative in this tournament. Boyd, Curry, Bach and Talbert debated for the first time the negative side of the national high school topic: "Social Security Benefits Should Be Extended To Provide Complete Medical Care for the Aged."

Other students representing Nicholas County were Pam Reid, Susan Small, Wisby Ann Sharer, Fay Lyman and Kent Mann. The Mason-Dixon Tournament is held annually at St. Charles—Henry County, students from Kentucky and surrounding states compete in speech events in this tournament. Last year, Nicholas County debaters, Edward Taylor and Ralph Wesley, won this tournament.

"Playhouse 64" is made up of students of Nicholas County High School who are in Dramatic Arts class. This was the first tournament for these students. They, together with the speech students will participate in the Central Kentucky Tournament at Henry Clay High School, Lexington, December 4.

Mrs. Genevieve Whitt, teacher of dramatic arts; Mrs. Faye Wesley, speech and debate coach; and Charles Wilson, principal, accompanied the students.

Buffalo Tracings

The non-fiction shelves of the Nicholas County Memorial Library are arranged according to the Dewey Decimal System. Dewey and his most important people, think and debate coach; and Charles Wilson, principal, accompanied the students.

Fire Safety Winner
Cold weather always brings an increase in destructive fires. K. E. C. O. D. S. show that heating systems are mainly to blame. When they're pushed hard in cold weather, any weakness in the equipment or installation will show up, sometimes causing disasters.

To reduce fire hazards and keep fires from starting all furnaces and heaters need a periodic cleaning and checkup. These must be kept clean, free of holes and weak spots. Well supported, and away from combustibles. Make sure they are spaced far enough from nearby structures to prevent overheating. Check chimneys for cracks and loose bricks. If chimneys are used for fuel or wood fires, a yearly cleaning is necessary.

Refueling portable oil heaters call for caution. Never fill them while they are burning or still hot, and avoid overfilling. If the oil spills in cold, wait for it to freeze, then wash it possible burner flooding and flare-up.

Keep your portable heaters out of halls and away from doors or stairs where they might block escape. See that they are not placed too near curtains, clothes racks, and other combustibles. Don't buy or keep tippy heaters. Get your heating equipment ready for winter and your family and home safe from it.

A Lot Of Water
The fact that we haven't had much rain this fall has made most of us a lot more conscious of the importance of water. But did you ever think just how much water falls when it does rain?

Take a 160 acre farm as an example. One inch of rain on this farm delivers 4,356,000 gallons—and that equals 363,000 pounds of water. To haul this much water in tank cars,
