City Approves $550,000 Bond Sale At Meet

The City Council of the City of Carlisle, Tuesday night approved the sale of $550,000 in bonds to finance the construction of sewer lines and a sewage treatment plant.

The bonds went to Magnus & Company at an interest rate of 4.041598 percent.

Magnus & Company is composed of the following associates Hayden, Stone & Company; Walter, Woody & Heimerdinger, and Weil, Roth & Irving Company.

In all, eight bids were submitted for council's consideration. Stein Bros. & Boyce, Louisville, is the city's fiscal agent.

HEW Approves Sewage Plant Increase

Congressman John C. Watts, Sixth District Representative, wired Mayor William Power and this newspaper Wednesday, of the approval of a grant by Health, Education and Welfare, on project 156, in the amount of $22,250 for sewage treatment facilities. The grant represents an increase over original estimates, Mayor Power states.

Work on the long sought sewage system will probably begin shortly after the first of the year.

Fleming Woman Only Woman Member Of Co-op Board

Mrs. C. R. Whaley, the the only woman member of the board of directors of Fleming-Mason RECC and the oldest woman director from the standpoint of service in Kentucky, paraphrases President Kennedy's famous statement from his inaugural address, with her philosophy of life. "Do not ask what your community can do for you, but what you can do for your community."

As a result, Mrs. Whaley is a very busy woman. She has been a director of the co-op since its organization 25 years ago, and before that carried a petition to obtain names of prospective members. She has helped her husband earn the coveted title of State Farmer of the Year; served for 23 years as secretary-treasurer of Fleming-Mason RECC; is a member of the board and for a number of years a teacher in the Helena Methodist Church.

She is chairman of the church Christian Social Relations Society and is past District Zone Chairman of that group; a life member of the Fleming County Hospital Auxiliary; a member of the Fleming County Garden Club; the Mayslick Book Club and the Couples Social Club of that locality; a member of the Johnson Homemakers Club; the Extension Council; past president of the former Farm Bureau Women's Group, and is at present the outstanding farm woman of the year for Fleming County and a nominee for the state title.

In looking back over the years, Mrs. Whaley has come to the following conclusions:

"Cooperatives are necessary in many phases of rural life in order to advance . . . not only economically but to higher standard of living. Rural electric cooperatives should render service to their members not only in fields where such service could not otherwise be provided. The role of the electric cooperative director is changing and expanding. At first they had to concentrate on service. Now they must continue this function and at the same time maintain their hard won position both in state and national levels. To do so directors must keep well informed at all times.
