Vo Ag Laboratory A Reality As Contract Terms Accepted

At a special meeting Wednesday, Feb. 13, the Nicholas County Board of Education gave final consideration to a contract with Mrs. W. E. Piper for the option, lease, and purchase of her entire farm consisting of approximately 60 acres which is located on the north side of Main street of Carlisle and highways 32 and 68, and surrounds the present site of the Nicholas County high school. By terms of the contract which was accepted, the Board purchased and was deeded a portion of the entire tract and leased the rest of the farm with an option to purchase the rest of the farm tract, receives immediate possession and leases for a period ending December, 1962.

Mr. Wells became a clerk in the Carlisle Post Office in 1922, and when the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital opened on May 15, 1935, he was named head of the Mailing Department, which office he now holds.

DEEDS RECORDED

Kelley Wells and wife to J. Maurice and D. C. Cameron, two tracts of land on Parks Ferry.

will give possession prior to July 1, providing the work planned on the new home is completed ahead of schedule.

The land is being added to the present site of the Nicholas County high school and the farm will continue to be operated in the future as it has been in the past until the purchase of the farm is completed. While the board will not engage in the actual operation of the farm, the operation and management will be used as a laboratory situation for vocational agriculture as taught in the high school. Since Nicholas county still depends largely on agriculture for its substantial income it is quite evident that at the present the farm will enhance the vocational agriculture program in the Nicholas County high school. The farm will not be used as an effort to stop an urbanizational trend in Nicholas county and Kentucky but it will be used to its maximum in teaching students in vocational agriculture the best methods of operation and management of farm lands.

In a statement by Raymond J. Wesley, Superintendent of Nicholas County Schools, he stated: "We believe that by using the farm as a laboratory teaching situation, we can provide the student with profitable experiences and training in agriculture and better prepare those who may choose agriculture as a career." Since the farm surrounds the present high school site, all of the aspects of a farm situation becomes readily available and accessible to the vocational agriculture students with the minimum loss of time for field trips.

While the board does not have immediate plans for expansion of the school facilities on the enlarged site, it is recognized that this site is adequate and desirable for any exansion program in the future. In approving the addition, the Department of Education for Kentucky recognized no probable further expansion feature of the property and readily approved the addition.

'Pick A Project' Contest Announced By Jaycees

On Saturday, March 2, the Nicholas County Jaycees will start accepting entries in their "Pick-a-Project" contest.

At their last meeting, the Jaycees decided to let the whole community help them decide on what project they would undertake during the coming year. It was felt that many new ideas would be found by sponsoring such a contest.

Since their organization about four years ago, some of the projects of these "Young Men of Action", as the Jaycees have been called, have been air conditioning the local hospital, sponsoring the annual horse show, erection of a scoreboard at the local football field, painting of the regional library, erection of road signs throughout the county, the teenage safe driving rodeo and many others too numerous to mention.

A panel of judges will select the best idea for a new project from all entries received and award a $50.00 savings bond to the winner. The judges for the contest will be Mrs. R. L. Talbert, Rev. Robert Raborn, Ralph Shearer, Dr. J. T. Morford and Joe A. Crouch. No member of either the judges' or Jaycees' families will be eligible to receive the savings bond.

Entrants in this contest must realize that some projects would be financially impossible for the Jaycees alone to undertake. However, a major portion of the money received from all money raising affairs staged by the Jaycees, including the Midwestern Hayride and the Horse Show, will be directed to the selected project.

Mail your entry with an explanation for selecting the idea to "Pick-a-Project" Contest, Box 72, Carlisle, Ky. Be sure to include your name and address with your entry. This contest will close on Saturday, April 6. All entries received after this date will not be eligible for the prize. Announcement of the winners will be made during the Midwestern Hayride Show to be held at Nicholas County high school Thursday night, April 18.

The county board of directors will be elected at this meeting. Mrs. Grimes Caywood, immediate past president of the county chapter was named chairman of the board at the October meeting.

Reservations should be made at this meeting for the annual district meeting to be held March 12, at Holiday Inn, Lexington, from 9:30 to 2:00 p.m.

Weather Forces Plane To Land At Clark Farm

A single-engine plane, containing four persons, made an emergency landing about 5:30 p.m. Monday on the Boone Clark farm about three miles east of here.

State Trooper James Feck, who investigated the landing, said no one was injured and the plane received only slight damage.

Howard R. Osterhouse was identified as pilot. Passengers were William D. Martin, Gerald J. Murcere and Wayne E. Harrington. All are residents of Kalamazoo, Mich.

The group was returning to Michigan from Daytona Beach, Florida.

Feck quoted the pilot as saying he attempted to land at Blue Grass Field, Lexington, when he began to run low on fuel and encountered bad weather.

The pilot told Feck he got within seven miles of Lexington but was forced to fly at much low altitudes that he lost radio contact.

Feck said the pilot then drifted off course and landed at the Clark farm.

The plane had a damaged rear wheel, bent wing support wires and a dented right door.
