 With Christmas over, there is sort of an interlude as one becomes adjusted to thinking in terms of a New Year. For one likes to pause, reviewing the highlights of history making events and the many memories of incidents that happened in a year added in a book now closed.

Today is Sunday, January 6, and the sky is a gray mist with heavy fog. However, regardless of weather Seed Catalogues are coming as reminders that the misty shadows will soon evaporate into sunshine and beauty of the season of awakening.

Any way we got lots of pretty Christmas cards from here and there from relatives and friends. A Christmas edition of the "Arizona High Ways" was sent with one from my niece who lives there illustrating that exotic beauty of the scenery the lovely desert flowers and mountains and the breathtaking view of a desert sunset all in wonder of the undescrivable wonders of nature in her most enchanting and artistic beauty.

We hope all readers and Mercury staff had a nice Christmas and a Happy New Year wish to all.

Brooks Hinkle attended the Kentucky Education Association delegate Assembly Friday and Saturday in Louisville.

Mrs. Bruce Cleaver, Paris, was hostess Thursday to the Little Rock Homemakers Club.

Joe Hopkins entered the Bourbon County hospital Sunday for treatment.
