Friday's Storm.
The severe electrical storm last Friday night did quite a lot of damage to this part of town to lights, etc. It also blew near a basement window at 138 home of Billy Vaughn and TV set at home of Mrs. Effie Wilkins were badly damaged. A clothes line was blown down to a small walnut tree at my home on East Main street, probably by lightning. Reporting a "dead" street light to the main office Saturday morning, I was told that the entire crew of employees had worked all night to repair store. I have been informed that the fire at the home of Miss M. A. J. House and brother-in-law on East Main street was caused by lightning. Things were really rough all over town.

Managed grazing will bring dividends this summer. Most pastures in the county are cool-season grasses (bluegrass, fescue, orchard grass, timothy) and legumes (clover, white clover, red clover and in some cases alfalfa). To get good mid-summer grazing from these pastures, need comparatively good management and abundant summer rainfall.

Top management includes fertilization, clipping to control weeds and areas cattle passed up, and rotational or managed grazing. Limit the area livestock may graze over at one time, so cattle tend to "sandpaper" some areas and ignore others.

Many farmers use Korean or Kobe lespedeza for mid-summer grazing. To get the most from these two crops, fertilization and liming programs should be current. Plants should be at least six inches high before grazing is started. Clip the field if grasses have been mixed with lespedeza. Unlighted, and fertility will favor the lespedeza. Limit the area to be grazed to your stock for grazing. Start with the healthiest, best growing field and move the cattle when the lespedeza has been grazed down, and the animals start "walking the fence line" or food.

If you have plenty of alfalfa hay in storage by mid-summer, you may want to use some of the July and August alfalfa crop as partial area. But, fence off small areas so the animals can graze it down in a week or less and then allow that area 35 to 40 days to recover, if temporary fencing is inconvenient, stock the field slightly. Remove all animals from alfalfa fields by Sept. 10 to let the plants go into winter in good condition.

If using Sudan grass, remember this crop needs top management. Rotate the grazing on Sudan pastures, or manage the pastures carefully. Clip each grazing and allow 10 to 24 inches growth before grazing is started. Top yields must be obtained to justify use of this crop. Treat Sudan grass as if you had a corn crop if you wanted to yield 100 bushels. Use soil tests to determine phosphate, potash and lime needs. A hundred pounds of actual nitrogen (300 pounds of ammonium nitrate or its equivalent) seems close to the basic need for good Sudan yields. This nitrogen can be applied in two ways: one, working it into the soil prior to seeding, when the entire amount is put on; and second, about a third of the required amount on prior to seeding and a third following each grazing off by cattle. Both methods have proved satisfactory under Kentucky conditions.

The following is a recipe for "Heavenly Strawberry Pie":
1 vanilla flavor pie shell (9") chilled.

2 cups whipping cream, whip until stiff.
2 cups sliced sweetened, drained strawberries.
Mix together 1/2 lb. softened margarine, beaten; 1 cup granulated sugar and beat until frothy. Beat in 2 whole, well beaten eggs. Beat until smooth, like long filling in chilled shell, and refrigerate for about an hour.
Beat whipping cream and confecturer's sugar gradually. Fill in strawberries. Place on top of pie filling. Garnish with your largest and prettiest strawberries which make up a year.

at, as well as to taste.
Questions And Answers
QUESTION: I have a woman come in to clean my house. I just three days per month. I pay her $30.00 per month. Since her wages are less than $50.00 per month, do I have to report them for Social Security purposes?
ANSWER: Yes. The employer of household help must report the wages of a domestic employee if the wage paid total $50.00 per quarter (i.e., $50.00 in any one of the four quarters which make up a year).

Washington Report

Rep. John C. Watts
Astrowson's Address
"Mr. Speaker, Major L. Gordon Cooper, United States Air Force"
With these words, the Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives announced the arrival of a man of great accomplishment and few words. Most of the maximum applause which greeted Cooper, he appeared in the dignitary, "Gordo", escorted by Congress' top brass, marched down the main aisle of the House straight up to the Speaker's rostrum to address a joint session of Congress.
The handsome, trim, young astronaut, who only a few days before had been hurrying through space to secure the States' landmark award, was greeted with a tumultuous standing ovation. Despite the thunderous applause which greeted Cooper, he appeared in the readily relaxed astronaut who earlier had related his experiences of one of man's greatest adventures in space. "I thought it was just like any other trip--a combination of sight-seeing, map-reading and picture-taking but a different kind of observation."
