KU TO REDUCE ELECTRIC RATES

Kentucky Utilities Company will reduce its electric rates to residential customers by about a million dollars a year beginning July 1, under a rate schedule filed this week for the approval of the Kentucky Public Service Commission.

The reduction amounts to about 5½ per cent of the company's total residential revenue. The new rates will result in a saving on all bills for residential service using more than 100 kilowatt hours a month.

More than 139,000 of KU's 196,000 residential customers will save under the new rate schedule the first year it is in effect.

School Board Takes Up Teaching Problems

One of the big jobs facing the County Board of Education is adopting a school program for 1963-64. The board is required to submit a plan and application for the program to be operated next year, by June 15. Last Tuesday night, May 21, the board met and took the first steps on adopting a program.

The board first considered the past programs offered by the two systems and the parts of the programs which need little or no changing to meet acceptable standards. Actually, merging the two districts did not change the number of children to be educated, the number of class rooms available for instruction, or the money available for educational purposes. All of the improvements in educational opportunities to be made by the board for the next school year will be a result of reorganization so that the resources of the two former districts may be operated at a greater advantage.

First consideration was given to the elementary program with the idea in mind that an elementary school should have a teacher responsible for only one grade. The Moorefield school has 6 rooms with 6 teachers and 7 grades. In the future, Moorefield will operate with 6 teachers, a teacher per grade. Nicholas County Elementary school has 14 rooms, 14 teachers, and 7 grades. No change was made in the organization of Nicholas County elementary since each grade has two teachers per grade. The first six grades in the Carlisle School will operate with at least a teacher per grade assignment. The program for the rest of the elementary grades and the high school in the system will be operated in the Carlisle City School and Nicholas County high school.

In the near future, the board will decide on the organization to be followed for the remaining program which will involve the upper six grades and approximately 600 children. There are some two or three plans that might be used such as a junior high of 7, 8, and 9 and a senior high of 10, 11, and 12. It could be operated on an 8-4 plan with the grades through 8 having all subjects of each grade under one teacher and the upper four grades, 9 through 12 as a high school. It is also possible to operate on a 6-2-4 plan with the first six grades having all subjects of each grade under one teacher, the next two grades, 7 and 8, conducted on a team-teaching plan in which a teacher would have a definite assignment in presenting a part of the subjects to both grades and work with other teachers as a team. The last four grades would be conducted as a senior high school in the 6-2-4 plan. The plan of organization that will be used for the upper six grades that will be operated in the Carlisle City and the Nicholas County high school will have to be the plan that will best adapt itself to the two buildings.

The program now being planned, is for the next school year. The future program for Nicholas county will be determined after a school survey and careful study. It is quite evident at this point that the children will have a broader educational program next year as one system than either system has had in the past.

At the Commencement program at Nicholas County high school on Friday night, Supt. Raymond Wesley requested, on behalf of the board, that parents consider the program and its changes with patience and give their support.

He stated that the infant school system needed to be nourished and aided in its infancy. He further pointed out that while the system was new it was made entirely of the old and that the source and substance from which it was created was children — your children. He further predicted that it would be successful because parents in Nicholas county always support their children.

City Gets $155,000 Grant For Sewer Construction

Rev. Farrell Mission Speaker

Rev. Edwin Trimbur, pastor of the Shrine of Our Lady in Carlisle, has announced that Mission services will be conducted from Sunday, June 2 to Friday, June 7, nightly at 7:30, by Rev. J. A. Farrell, a Paulist missionary from Memphis.

Services will consist of prayers, hymn singing, preaching, and benediction. Major sermons will be preached on Your Glorious Destiny; From Death to Life; Sex and Marriage; How Good God Is; Safety in a Dangerous World; and Your Secret of Victory.

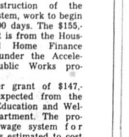
Each evening during the prayer parishioners will meditate on the most difficult hours in the life of Jesus.

After weekday morning Mass the missionary will give a ten-minute talk on: Brotherhood; The Obedient Man; The Humble Man; The Patient Man; The Loving Man.

Mission services have some similarity to revivals held in other churches. The purpose is to clear up confusions and strengthen faith in God's teaching, to stimulate those who are sluggish in their spiritual life, to bring sinners back to God, and to help good people stay good and become better.

In the spirit of Pope John, Father Trimbur invites members of all churches to be present for these mission services.

The Paulist Fathers, the group to which the missionary belongs, were organized in New York City about 100 years ago by five priests who had all been Protestants in their youth. This fact accounts for the continuing sympathy of Paulists for people who are not Catholics as well as for those who are.



TO RECEIVE B.S. DEGREE

William T. Letcher is a candidate for the Bachelor of Science Degree in Marketing from the University of Louisville, University College at the commencement exercises scheduled for June 9.

Mr. Letcher graduated from Nicholas County high in 1951. He attended evening classes at Indiana University Southeastern Center, Jeffersonville, Indiana for four years, and has been an evening student at Carlisle's long awaited sewer disposal plant and lines may be constructed within the next 100 days—and according to Mayor Bill Power there is little to keep the dream from becoming a reality.

Friday, Sixth District Rep. John C. Watts advised this newspaper that a grant of $155,000 had been approved to assist Carlisle in the construction of the sewer system, work to begin within 100 days. The $155,000 grant is from the Housing and Home Finance Agency under the Accelerated Public Works program.

Another grant of $147,000 is expected from the Health, Education and Welfare department. The proposed sewage system for Carlisle is estimated to cost $588,000. The remaining $286,000 will be raised by a bond issue and retired by payment of nominal sewage fee charged to each user.

U.L.C. for the past three years.

Mr. Letcher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Letcher of Carlisle and now makes his home in Clarksville, Indiana with his wife the former Shirley Shaw, and two year old son Jeff. He is manager of the Tri-City Auto Supply Branch Store in Jeffersonville.

Protect Lives, Vaccinate Dogs Against Rabies

Rabies vaccination of your dog will not only protect his life, but your own, and other human lives as well, B. F. Reynolds, M.D., Nicholas County Health Officer, said today.

Rabies in Kentucky livestock seems to be decreasing since the passage of the 1954 Rabies Control Law, but the occurrence of two human deaths from rabies in the past year points to the fact that we must remain alert to preventive measures, he said.

The Rabies Control Law, which requires all dogs over six months of age be vaccinated against rabies, makes an owner liable for any person bitten by his unvaccinated dog, if the dog is rabid.

Now is the time to get your dog vaccinated for rabies. Take him either to your veterinarian or to your county rabies clinic, which will be held June 15 and 22 at the Carlisle Stockyards, 1 to 4 p.m. each day, where he may receive a new type vaccine which gives immunity for three years.

Dr. Reynolds then listed the following points for dealing with possible rabies: 1) Any person who has been bitten should be placed under a physician's care immediately; 2) Notify the local health deparment immediately of any animal that has bitten a person or another animal or is suspected of having rabies; 3) The animal should be confined for 14 days; 4) Observe the animal daily and watch for any unusual symptoms; 5) Do not destroy the animal before it shows definite signs of rabies; 6) If the animal does show signs of rabies, do not destroy it by chemical poisoning, clubbing on the head, or shooting in the head. These methods destroy the brain tissues and make laboratory tests difficult or even impossible; 7) Pack the head of the animal in a water-tight metal container, which in turn should be packed in cracked ice for shipping to the laboratory; 8) All animals suspected of having been exposed to rabies should be confined immediately. Consult your local veterinarian or health department for further advice.
