More Corn—Less Cob

Southern States Hybrids

See the big healthy ear of corn on the right with the deep kernels and the small, well-filled cob! That's a typical Southern States hybrid ear. Now, compare it with the hybrid on the left. Note the small, shallow kernels and the big cob. You get more corn on less cob with Southern States hybrids. Want further proof? Shell them out for yourself. The Southern States hybrid gives you more shelled corn. Remember, a few dozen of these extra kernels per ear make a big difference in your total yield.

So ask for Southern States hybrids. They grow more corn on less cob... and they're doubly guaranteed!

CARLISLE SIXTH GRADE NEWS

In our sixth grade history class, we are studying about cathedral windows. We have made designs and cut them out. Then we put cellophane paper over the designs and put them up in our windows. This is our version of stained-glass windows. We did this on Wednesday, April 8. We went to visit the churches of Carlisle and looked at the real stained-glass windows.

We visited the Catholic church and saw some beautiful stained-glass designs. We then went to the Presbyterian, Baptist, Christian and ended our trip at the Methodist church. Each of these had beautiful windows.

On our way back we visited Ann Boothe, a member of our class, who is ill at her home. There was a pretty stained-glass window in the front room. We would like to thank the churches for giving us permission to admire their beautiful stained-glass.

Bill Gilley brought some books on window designs and two sample windows for us to see. We appreciate his interest in bringing
