Lake CARNICO, as viewed from the air and looking northward, continues to fill. Waterfront lots of Bill Straw, Billy Parker, Dr. Hutchings, Roger Womack, Warren Fisher, Charles Cox and others can be seen across the lake. The road along "Ingles Ridge" leads to the Fish and Game Club and the club house may be seen in the upper right. Hickory Ridge Road extends across the top of the picture. ALL HANDS ALERT!

Safety precautions should not be confined to saving lives on the motor highways. It is just as important to observe safety measures on the water. It would be well, therefore, for all boating enthusiasts to adhere to the following simple rules for safe boating prescribed by Admiral E. J. Roland, Commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard:

DON'T

- Overload your craft or allow your passengers to move about in a way that may change its balance.
- Leave shore in a leaky or badly constructed boat.
- Venture into dangerous or restricted waters.
- Operate near swimmers.
- Forget your wake can endanger others.
- Use gasoline stoves.
- Lie at anchor with a short scope of line.
- Mix liquor and boating.

DO

- Observe the rules of the road. Carry approved life preservers for each person on board.
- Instruct at least one of your passengers in the rudiments of handling your craft in case you are injured.
- See that all hands know what to do in an emergency and where to find the safety equipment.
- Check weather and tides before going out.
- Check gasoline system, make sure all tanks are vented, see that bilges are free of vapors, oil, waste and grease.
- Be sure you have an adequate oil filter.
- Check your battery and maintain electrical equipment in accordance with good marine practices.

you can both enjoy and afford for the whole family.

Service stations are plentiful as well as helpful. They provide not only fuel, but a clean place to rest, freshen up a bit, gather information as to sights in the surrounding areas.
