

Free choice feeding with a self-feeder. This type of feeding cuts down on the labor involved in caring for the hogs. There are several types of hog projects that 4-H members may take in 4-H; sow and litter, market hogs, feeder pigs, hogs for breeding, or hogs for home meat supply. Any boy or girl interested in taking hogs as a 4-H project should contact the County Extension Office for further details and assistance in getting the project organized.

Coal For U. K.
In October, the University's central plant burns 1,000 tons of coal, whereas in January around 3,000 tons are used, Lilly said. This amount tapers off until April when gas-fired boilers are lighted. Because of the strikes and spring floods, Lilly explained, the University needs coal for emergency use. The U. K. operated on stock coal for a two-week period during a severe winter, he said. "Our annual expenditures for coal average approximately $122,000 for the central heating plant, and $100,000 for $105,000 for the Medical Center," Lilly said. UK requires that 30 per cent of the coal pass through a quarter inch screen, and therefore annually by UK for the heating plant. Clyde Lilly, Division of Maintenance and Operations, said. Nearly 13,000 tons are stocked for the Medical Center which has its own plant. The coal is scheduled by the week, arriving in railroad cars, Lilly said. "We may receive anywhere from three to four cars or 11 to 12 cars. Coal going to the central heating plant is dumped directly from the car to the stock pile. However, coal for the Medical Center must be hauled in trucks. "Generally, we find that the Medical Center burns more coal in the winter," Lilly said. This is because the Medical Center uses coal for energy to run the generators and compressors. Barnes, David Vice, Sharon Myner.
