Nicholas County High Notes

by Linda Ritchie and Judy Whitaker

Now that semester tests are over everyone can feel at ease, at least until report cards are out.

The first semester has zoomed by and the seniors are starting to order invitations.

A soc-hop provided entertainment Friday night for everyone who attended. The seniors sold concessions and the chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ockerman, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Donavan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Talbert. Everyone agreed with Charles Wilson, principal, when he said, "We really need more soc-hops and I'm all for it."

The Nicholas paper staff are busily working trying to get out the first issue. They plan to have the first issue out on February 7.

Awards for the best written essays of the Nicholas County high school were given in chapel Thursday. Rita Dayton, first place winner, had the best essay in the county written on Forest Conservation, How it Benefits My Community." Brenda Bach, sophomore, won second place, Linda Marsh, received fourth place. William Threkeld and Frank Henry presented the checks and certificates to the winners.

Miss Whitaker Miss Ritchie

The basketball players and cheerleaders enjoyed a good meal, served by the cooks, before leaving for the Woodford county game. "We had a very enjoyable meal and I really appreciated it," stated Jimmy Letcher. "We certainly played a terrific game."

The homecoming basketball queen will be crowned this Friday night, January 31, at the Nicholas county vs. Fleming county game. The queen will be selected from 12 candidates and elected by the basketball players and cheerleaders. The queen of 1962-1963, Paulette Anderson, will present the crown.

the trees and have destroyed a great number due to such carelessness. People have cut down these trees for no reason whatsoever. Nicholas County would be indeed a barren and desolate place without trees." Then she pleads, "So citizens of Nicholas County, think about it."

Some other essay writers brought out important facts.

Kay Threlkeld, 3rd place county winner wrote "Thousands of acres of land in this county are producing nothing worth while. Yes, gullies are being made but nobody wants to buy them because most farmers have plenty already. The land that is too steep to cultivate and can not be pastured can be made to produce trees. If we had more trees some of us might be inspired to write beautiful poems and compose lovely songs."

Ann. Burden, 5th place winner in the county, started her essay with "One morning I woke up after a good hard rain had just fallen. I decided I would go outside and see what the rain had done. The first thing I saw was the field next door. The top soil had been washed away, and that meant that most of the minerals had been washed away too. I felt that if someone would have planted trees or grass in this spot it would have protected the soil a lot better. If people would plant trees on land not suited for other agriculture needs, we would have less soil erosion and our country would be more beautiful."

Robbie Kingsolver, 6th place winner in the county, wrote of the early days when he said "Long ago Nicholas County, like all Kentucky, was a beautiful land of forests and wildlife. It was the Indian's 'Happy Hunting Ground' He continued, "A good way to describe farming in early Kentucky is 'Cut down, wear out, and walk off.'" "What would little boys do without trees to climb?" asked Robby. Several of the essays referred to the big lake that has been built, and they referred to the need to plant desirable trees around the Cabin sites, if they are wanted later.

We are enjoying trees that started a generation ago. We must plant now for the next generation.

...me! If we had an accident or a high fever—we might become victims of cerebral palsy.

Many victims are children whose brains were damaged prior to birth or at the time of birth. Some of these children are mentally retarded but many have the potential of normal children — once they learn to communicate.

UCPB provides the opportunity for learning, for development through its therapy programs in speech, special education and social case work. 23 CP children in Central Ky., are attending public school this year who were considered uneducatable five years ago because of their many handicaps due to brain damage.

Please help other children get ready for the thrill of attending a regular school. You can help by giving to UCPB when your neighbor calls on you.

If a crippled child knocked at your door and asked for help . . . would you . . . could you . . . refuse? The answer, of course, is no. Children who have cerebral palsy depend on neighbors and friends to knock on doors for them. Give when the volunteer calls on you for the 53-Minute March on Feb. 6.

Jordan, treasurer.

The president, Mrs. Sparks indicated that the directors will be invited to a meeting to be held at her home on Eastern Avenue at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 4, to make plans for the annual Cancer Crusade and other business the Cancer Unit may feel is necessary.

The group at the meeting Monday night was enthusiastic about the American Cancer Program, and believes the formation of the Nicholas County Unit represents a great step forward in getting information to the people about cancer and what can be done to help in not only treatment of it, but the eventual complete control of it.

Anyone who was not able to attend the meeting and who is interested in participating and assisting in this work is asked to get in touch with Mrs. Sparks.

Adult Homemaking Class Seeks Interested Persons

An adult class is in the process of being organized at Nicholas County high school for anyone interested, who is out of high school. These lessons will be under the supervision of Misses Patti Rose and Lucy Walden, home economics teachers at the high school.

Topics under consideration are: Basic Learning in Clothing Construction which includes facings, zippers, hemming, seam finishes; Secondary Learnings in Clothing Construction, which includes sleeves, collar, belt, joining bodice to skirt; The New You for Spring, which includes improving personal appearance, hair styles, figure, etiquette, and choosing accessories; Controlling Your Weight, which is concerned with losing pounds and inches; Housing Hints for Spring and Your Child from One to Six.

Anyone that would be interested in attending a class of any of the suggested topics please call: Mrs. Harvey Wagoner, 547-W-3; Mrs. R. M. Hildreth, Jr. 575-M-1; Mrs. Norma Caswell, 1008; Misses Lucy Carole Walden or Patti Rose, 321-W.

These free classes will most likely begin the first week in March. Everyone is invited and welcome.

Jackets Defeat Deming Tuesday

Nicholas County traveled to Mt. Olivet Tuesday night and returned with a 60-54 victory. The Jackets jumped into a quick 19 to 10 lead but only held a 19-16 lead at the first rest stop. The score see-sawed and at the half the Jackets led 31-29. The fourth quarter saw Deming make a last quarter surge cutting the lead to 57 to 53 but at this point a basket by Hatton and a free throw by Allison assured the victory for Nicholas County.

The Jackets in winning their eleventh game of the year were led by Cecil Daugherty with 23 points followed by Allison with 19.

Friday night, January 31 is Homecoming at Nicholas Co. with Fleming County.

Homemakers Meet With Mrs. Wills
By Mrs. Edgar Scott

The Miranda Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Wills January 23 for an all-day get together with 19 members, three children and three visitors, Mrs. Eugene Smoot, Mrs. Hanson Ellington and Mrs. Stanley Wade in attendance.

Mrs. George D. Scott, president conducted the business session. Mrs. Willie Stone gave the devotional and poem. Landscape notes were presented by Mrs. Joe A. Stone.

An interesting lesson, "Color in the Home", was given by Mrs. Arrah Lee Sexton. She pointed out the many miracles color performs in the home, our clothing and outdoors. One can change a dull drab room into something beautiful. We learned to plan first, study our home, walls, woodwork and fixtures before we shop.

In each room be sure to follow one main pattern, a design that goes with your type of furnishings, colors suitable to you and the family and a color scheme you will enjoy living with, even if the present fashions change.

Our February meeting will be an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Kendall with Mrs. Lovell Shaw co-hostess.

Telephone Talk

by CHARLES A. HARRIS
Your Telephone Manager

HOW'S YOUR TELEPHONE PERSONALITY? Your voice, your telephone manner, and the way you use the phone can combine to present a warm, friendly, pleasant you to the people you call on the telephone. Your voice is you, especially to people you've never met. So, when you're on the phone, use the "voice with a smile", And to be sure your voice is completely audible at the other end of the line, speak directly into the receiver. Holding the receiver too far away from the mouth can drastically cut the amount of voice the listener hears. Don't waste that charming voice of yours. Speak directly into the phone. Make the most of the speed, the convenience, the dependability of your telephone.

POEM FOR NEW YEAR'S DAY . . .

May we suggest a resolution
You can keep throughout the year?
Stay in touch with all your relatives
And friends — both far and near.
It's really very easy
And the purpose of this "pome"
Is to point out the convenience
Of your handy telephone!

(The rhyme may not be very good, but we think the suggestion is!)
