Another Milestone is Gone.

Old neighbors felt a keen loss when news came of the death of Jim Will Sudduth at a nursing home in Lexington where he had been since last June. Being a painter and paper hanger, he was one of the best known men in Carlisle. Son of the late Russell and Mollie Daugherty Sudduth, he spent most of his life in Carlisle. His mother used to tell interesting stories of how this part of town was nothing more than a wheatfield when people began buying lots and building homes. They bought one and Mr. Sudduth, being a carpenter, erected a comfortable cottage which later burned, and he built another. There the two boys, Jim Will and Eala, grew to manhood, and married. Eala was a World War I veteran. He passed away some years ago. Jim's wife was formerly Catherine Brinegar who died around ten years ago. Yes, the passing of Jim Will Sudduth has brought sorrow to countless friends who have known him all his life.

Happy Birthday to Me.

Tuesday, January 28, was a day of great importance in my life. It was my birthday with two cakes, cards, gifts, in fact everything to make a very special occasion. There were gobs of candles, but I "huffed and I puffed until I blew them all out." It is impossible to name each one who helped make this particular event one long to be remembered, but I wish to publicly thank all members of Mrs. Bratley's class of the Methodist Church for the lovely Sunshine Box, and Hallye Griffin, who was responsible for the card shower. It was a bit tough for Postman Eads, but he made it up Dorseyville Hill without accident or incident and was still going strong last time I saw him. Mrs. W. F. Gaunce sent a lovely desert. Sunday, Charles and Sue Rawlings brought a box of candy from Lexington.

There was no mistake about ownership of the big chocolate cake for Bessie and Billy Ray had my name on top in bold letters.

Last, but not least, last Saturday night a male quartet on the Midwestern Hayride sang "Silver Slippers" by special request, which was the highlight of the whole affair. To tell the honest-to-goodness Sunday School truth, this birthday was the only time I ever had seventy-five candles on a cake and it is a great experience, although a bit exciting.

Yaps—All . . .

Dear Editor:

As president of the Carlisle Community Woman's Club and the Jr. Woman's Club we wish to express the appreciation of the club members for the cooperation we receive from your newspaper. The amount of space given annually to our club projects is inestimable. With all the communications media available these days, it is still the newspaper that puts information into our hands in retainable form--to be read, digested, and kept.

The Community Woman's Club and the Jr. Woman's Club are both members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the largest group of organized women in the world, having 11,000,000 members in 15,500 clubs in the United States and in 54 other countries. The General Federation program in this administration highlights — an extensive campaign to obliterate illiteracy from the United States and throughout the world; a Dimes for Liberty project to help build the Museum of Immigration at the base of the Statue of Liberty; cooperation in building the Cathedral of the Pines as a memorial to women who have died in all our wars, and many other worthwhile projects. However, our club has the privilege of choosing any project we wish to emphasize, always keeping in mind the needs of our local community.

Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, president of the General Federation, has declared that the General Federation of Women's Clubs has always strongly advocated the freedom of the press and that it has never been more important than it is today when more than half the countries of the world live under a partial or complete blackout of news through censorship.

Again we accept our deep thanks and all good wishes.

Sincerely
Mrs. Dan Rick, President,

Feed Grain Program

Sign up dates for the 1964 Feed Grain Program will be February 10 through March 27. County farmers planning to participate may sign up with the County A.S.C. Committee anytime during the sign-up period.

Two major changes have been made in this year's program. The maximum acreage which may be diverted has been raised to 50 per cent from 40 per cent of each farmer's feed grain base. The payment rate for diverting 40 per cent or more also will be higher than in 1963.

The largest acreage for which payment can be made for diversion is 50 per cent of the farms feed grain base or 25 acres if this is more than 50 per cent of the base. As in the past, the smallest acreage that can be diverted for payment is 20 per cent of the base.

In other respects, the 1964 program is generally the same as last year. The voluntary program combines corn, grain sorghum, and barley in a single feed grain base for each farm. Farmers participating will qualify for price support payments and payments for diverting land to conservation use. They also will be eligible for price support loans on all feed grain produced.

Russian Farms Have Many Problems

A recent report published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture says Russia must solve many problems before it can meet the demand for improved diets and consumer foods. A major difficulty is the lack of incentives and initiative resulting from the system of huge state and collective farms.

There are shortages of fertilizers and capital output. Much production is located in very dry regions with a short growing season.

The Russian agricultural administrative structure is too complicated and experimentation is lacking. There is potential—but the future of the Russian's agriculture is clouded because agricultural policy and objectives are bound up with political and strategic consideration.

Does Price of Wheat Influence Bread Prices

The price of wheat has little effect and seemingly little relationship to the price of bread.

If the cost of baking and distributing bread could be cut by 3 or 4 cents a loaf—this would have more impact on the consumer's food budget than if the farmer started giving his wheat away. If wheat prices went up one dollar a bushel, it wouldn't raise by much more than a penny the cost of wheat in a pound loaf of bread.

Neatness Means Safer Homes

During these cold winter months, people use their homes for events other than usual normal activities associated with everyday living. This means that neat and orderly farm homes are safer.

Neatness eliminates the cause of many accidents. There should be a place for everything, and everything in its place.

In addition, this is a good time to take a second look at any pesticides remaining around from last year. It may be safer to dispose of small quantities of poisonous chemicals rather than to run the risk of holding them over for another season unless they can be stored in original containers away from children.

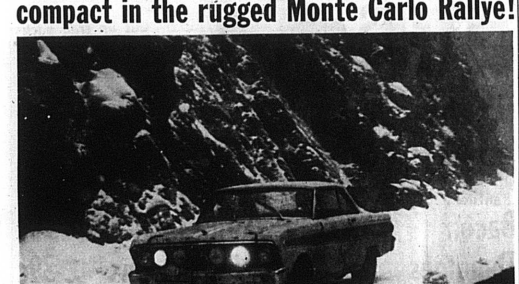
Falcon proves it's America's toughest compact in the rugged Monte Carlo Rallye!



Four Falcons started from Oslo, four from Paris, on routes calculated to be equal in difficulty and length. Weather conditions varied from clear, bitter cold through freezing fog to blinding snow—and the time schedules made no provision for delays. Here a Falcon swirls through a sudden snow shower, testing traction in a practice run.

Falcon entered two classes in Europe's 2,700-mile winter ordeal—won them both and finished 2nd overall out of 299 cars. That's durability!

In the Rallye's five special Alpine sections, Falcon was first overall in four, tied for first in one. That's roadability!

In the Rallye's final test around the Monte Carlo racing course, Falcons were first and second. That's maneuverability!

MONTE CARLO—The 33rd Monte Carlo Rallye started with 299 cars. Some 2,700 miles and 3½ days later, only 163 were still in the rally when the field struggled into Monaco—but they included all eight of the specially equipped Falcons that originally started!

This eight-out-of-eight record was perhaps more remarkable than the fact that, despite a handicap formula that favored the smallest cars, a Falcon captured second place overall. One car can have luck . . . but eight have to have total performance. Because the Rallye samples every variety of weather and road conditions the continent can provide, and because it winds up on the most remote byways in the French Maritime Alps, it is a supreme test of all the car's abilities. Falcon steering had to be flawless on glare ice above a 1,000-foot drop; Those fabulous V-8's had to run like dynamos.

The final results in the Monte Carlo Rallye gave Falcon 2nd place overall, 1st in Class 8 of the Touring category, 1st and 2nd in Class 5 of the much tougher Grand Touring category, 1st and 2nd in the final three-lap test on the Monte Carlo circuit. The best finish by a Valiant was 88th overall. Falcon gained invaluable experience in how to build a car better, make it tougher, sharpen up its total performance. That's the real reason Ford is interested in open competition—and why Ford-built cars have got so much more to show drivers. Drive one and see; it won't have six lights, or a horn you can hear for four miles in stormy weather, or the other special rally equipment—but it'll sure surprise you!

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!
