Local Homemakers Annual Meeting To Feature Folk Music Program

Rev. B. H. Kazee will present a program on folk music at the annual meeting of the Nicholas County Homemakers, Thursday, night July 16 at the Nicholas County High School.

Buell Kazee was born in a log house on the head of Burton Fork in Magoffin County. At the age of five he began "picking the banjo" and has kept it up during his entire lifetime to this date. His mother and father, with the rest of the family, sang the songs which had come across the seas as well as those which arose on this continent. Buell was never a song-collector; he grew up in them from childhood.

In the late twenties he made 52 selections for the Brunswick Phonograph Company, and these, while long out of print in America, have become collectors' items all over the folk song world. He is known by his recordings in England, Ireland, Scotland, Australia and other foreign countries, and is rated as one of the six best folk singers in America.

Folk singing and lectures have long been a hobby with him, but he has never made this a professional part of his life. He has studied and taught voice, has sung throughout his life, but from age 17 he has been dedicated to the Baptist ministry. He was for 22 years pastor of the First Baptist Church in Morehead, has taught in Bible colleges, has written some books and many religious magazine articles, and is now pastor of a Baptist church in Lexington.

His folk-song lectures are true to the genuine material, presented with literary value and loaded with entertaining fun. His program will appear on the surface to be entertainment, but beneath its humor will be the genuine folk music of the hills. He appeals to both children and adults.
