

Abundance Of Game Indicated

Frankfort (Special)—An abundance of game is indicated for Kentucky hunters when they take to the fields for the feature attraction of Kentucky's smallest game season. That's the opinion of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources after checking farmers, conservation officers and others who are in a position to know about the game fluctuations. It is an established fact that dove squirrels are being harvested than last year and the early indications are that the dove population is as great, if not greater, than for the preceding season. The Department knows that the deer herd is in good condition and with the opening of eight more counties more white-tailed deer are expected to be harvested by a greater number of hunters.

Reports from the nesting grounds indicate a better supply of certain species of ducks and the snow goose crop is better than it has been for several years. With these known facts about these species the Department is confident that the hunter will be well rewarded. The status of the bobwhite quail and the cottontail rabbit, two species that are most popular in the small game category, was at least satisfactory at the end of the summer and with favorable weather the harvest of these two species may reach an all-time high for the past few years. Almost without exception farmers in most sections of Kentucky claim an increase in the rabbit population. They report good survival of the early crops of bunnies and a good survival of the right up to the end of the summer. The optimistic outlook for the rabbit population is given also by these farmers, who report having seen some especially large covers during the summer. Conservation officers, too, are optimistic about the prospects for quail and rabbits and from eastern Kentucky come glowing reports on the ruffed grouse. The population of this fast flying bird has increased from year to year until the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission, upon recommendation of Commissioner Minor Clark, has increased the length of the season to the greatest number of days since the bird started its comeback. Grouse, which are found mostly in the eastern Kentucky section, present one of the finest targets for the hunter and more and more sportsmen are meeting the challenge that this mountain bird presents. The season this year opens on December 1 and continues through February 28 with a bag limit of four and a possession limit of eight.

The Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission debated about extending the length of the rabbit and quail season past the 60-day mark, but finally, in its August meeting, decided to hold the season to the 60 days. The season for these two species, and for turkeys, opens on November 1 and continues through January 17. The bag limit for rabbits is again eight per day with a possession limit of 16 after two or more days of hunting. For quail the hunter may take 10 per day or have in his possession 20 after two days of hunting. There are no limits on turkeys.

Squirrel hunters are finding plenty of baby tails and the forecast of an increased population by Department biologists is being borne out. This healthy increase is attributed to a fine mast crop which occurred last year and which most usually means a good squirrel crop the following year. The eastern season opened on August 29 and continues through November 15; openings on December 1 and continues through November 15.

Early reports from the dove hunters (the season opens on September 1) indicate a crop comparable to that of last year and with favorable weather more are expected to be harvested than for the previous year. The first part of the split season closes on October 30. The second season opens on December 1 and continues through December 10. With an anticipated increase in their population, the Department of Interior and the Department increased the bag limit from 10 of last year to 12 and the possession limit to 24 after two or more days of hunting.

The gun deer season opens on November 23 and continues through November 29 in all 48 counties that were opened last year, and for eight new counties in a one-day season, November 28, has been set. These new counties are Green, Letcher, McLean, Monroe, Todd, Wayne, and Wayne. The archery season opens on October 1 and continues through November 15 in all counties opened to the archery and gun season, plus Woodford and Anderson. Only one deer may be taken by a hunter in the archery and gun season, in addition to a valid hunting license, the hunter must have a deer hunting permit, cost of which is $10.50.

The duck season opens on November 25 and continues through January 3, a total of 40 days which have been included in the bag and possession limit of five which limit may not include more than two Canada or two white-fronted or one Canada or sub-species and one white-fronted. Hunting will be permitted for both ducks and geese.

The Ballard County Wildlife Management Area the duck season opens on December 1 and continues through January 3, while the goose season opens on December 1 and continues through January 15. The statewide bag and possession limits apply to the management area but only morning hunting will be permitted.

EAST UNION HOMEMAKERS
by Mrs. Elsie Terrell
The East Union Homemakers met Oct. 15, at the home of Mrs. Raymond House. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Marvin Caswell. There were only six members present. We had a new member join our Club. Devotional was given by Mrs. William Dummer and The Lord's Prayer was repeated by all.

Boil call by Lucy Nell Terrell was answered by a "dried flower" from Mrs. Elsie Terrell. The reason for "dried flowers" was given by Mrs. House. There were several beautiful arrangements made.

The Thanksgiving meeting, known as family night, was discussed and it was decided to hold it in the Hall of the East Union Christian Church, Nov. 9. We hope each member will bring her family and attend. It will be a pot luck supper. Bring a friend with you. Refreshments were served by Mrs. House and the meeting was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wendel Livingston and son of Bourbon County, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald George of Myers Station were Sunday guests of their parents, and Mrs. Robert Russell Sr. and children. Mrs. Johnny Shields and son, and Mrs. Thomas Harwick were callers Saturday afternoon of Mrs. Shields, Mrs. Sterling Jackson and Mr. Jackson.

Dee Buckler returned back to school Sunday at Hazel Green. He was home last week on sick leave.
