The Nicholas Soil Conservation District was presented today with a Revised Memorandum of Understanding with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. William F. Threlkeld, Work Unit Conservationist, made the presentation.

The signing of the document in Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman was witnessed by D. A. Williams, Administrator of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

The revised Memorandum of Understanding is based on a modernized Soil Conservation District Program developed under the leadership of Lovell Hollar, Chairman of the Nicholas Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, and Charles Whaley, Frank Henry, Norwood Auxier, and Howard Sidle, members.

The Board of Supervisors received assistance from Mr. Threlkeld Work Unit Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service; Foster Adams, Field Representative with the Kentucky Division of Soil and Water Resources; along with the Agricultural Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

In a letter to Hollar, Secretary Freeman said, "I want to commend the governing body of your district for their progressive action in updating the soil and water conservation program and modernizing the memorandum of understanding with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is an important initial step in helping private landowners move forward more effectively with their resource conservation and development effort."

Mr. Taff, Soil Conservation Service State Conservationist, Lexington, Kentucky, in a letter to Mr. Hollar expressed the compliments of Administrator Williams to the members of the District governing body for their foresight and vision in broadening the concepts of conservation and rural areas development in their District and commended them for recognizing the new challenges and opportunities which lie ahead in this field. He pledged to them the full cooperation of the Soil Conservation Service in meeting these new challenges.

The revised District Program and Basic Memorandum replace those developed in 1943 when the district was first organized. The documents recognize modern concepts in resource development and soil and water conservation, and provide for full use of current programs and modern technology.
