Junkyard Permits

Frankfort, Sept. 23—Almost half of Kentucky's junkyard dealers have submitted applications for permits in compliance with the state's screening law, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward announced today.

Ward released figures which showed that 44 applications for permits were received during August, thus bringing to 415 the total number of applications received by the Department's Office of Compliance.

There are presently 909 junkyards in operation in Kentucky, and this figure is expected to decrease as District Office personnel inspect premises.

Plans for screening are submitted with applications, and a permit is issued only after the junkyard operators have erected suitable screens.

Ward said that 51 permits were issued during the period August 12- September 11, upping the total number or permits issued to 118.

The office of Compliance undertook enforcement of the screening law on July 1.

TWO PACKS OF FAGS COST LOCAL MAN $250 IN CON GAME

A Carlisle man, who attempted to prove his trustworthiness and make $250 at the same time, lost that amount of money to three confidence men in the Eastland shopping Center, Lexington, Thursday.

Herman Linville told Lexington police that three men approached him about 1 p.m. and told him they had found $500.

Linville said one of the men said he was from Tennessee and was afraid to carry the money because he did not know anyone here. The man told Linville that if he would keep the money until 6 p. m. he would give him half of it.

The man said that to prove Linville was an honest man, he must give him $250 to hold until the men met at 6 p. m. The man explained to Linville that the $250 would assure him that Linville would return at 6 p. m.

Linville said he withdrew the money from a bank and gave it to the man, who gave him the $500 wrapped in a handerchief.

Linville said the man did not return at 6 p. m. so he opened the handkerchief and found only two packs of cigarettes.
