Name Change Effective Today; It's Blue Grass Industries, Now
Wayne Shumate, president of Giffin Mfg., announces today that the company's name will henceforth be known as Blue Grass Industries, Inc. The change is effective October 1. Mr. Shumate says, "It is felt that this name will aid in identifying the locality of both old and new customers." He added, "The community, businessmen and employees have worked together for the past 16 years to develop an organization which can truly be called the 'Pride of the Blue Grass.' We intend to carry on the entire expansion program planned for late fall. In addition to the building program, an increase in the labor is expected within the next 60 days.

FISHER'S POND—We've contacted several persons, some think maybe the Conservation department would stock our pond with brood, but on the other hand that would not be practical because when there's a drought this pond is one of the first to dry. Another peculiar fact, the sewer contractors submit a paving job which was overseen by two graduate engineers and to our knowledge no determining whether the sewer was made by the grader into the storm sewer opening at the extreme end of the picture. They even had the use of a crane and the use of the black-top strip applied on the far side of the road is such that it forms a dam instead of allowing rain water to flow into the drain. Maybe we should wash cars here. Power that he forgot the Mayor Hill will be there and gave his car a shower-bath on his way to work—and was still wearing a shower-bath. Every try to keep paint on a wet surface.

What happened in 1959 when there was no Government restriction on tobacco? The amount farmers received for all the tobacco grown in the United States in 1959 was a $288,889,000. By contrast, the amount received for all the 1963 tobacco crop—$1,352,968,000—was almost five times as much. But what about Kentucky—the second largest tobacco producer in the leading Blue Ridge State. Kentucky farmers received for all the 1959 tobacco crop for their 1959 tobacco crop. For the 1963 crop, they received $20,000,000—about six times as much.
