Insurance Costs May Rise

Frankfort — Liability insurance costs for motorists in Nicholas County would be increased $5.00 annually if a proposal to revise auto insurance rates is granted.

A public hearing on adjustments and new rate schedules begins this week before Kentucky Insurance Commissioner William E. Bivin.

Requested by two national organizations, the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters (NBCU) and the National Automobile Underwriters Association (NAUA), the changes include increases in most counties for collision insurance and increases in some counties but reduction in others for comprehensive insurance, in addition to the liability changes.

For Nicholas County, comprehensive protection would increase by $1-.00. (2) The yearly cost for $100 deductible insurance protection would be increased $5.00.

Revisions vary for different areas of the state which is divided into a dozen rating territories according to population and traffic volume. The NCBU and NAUA are presenting accident date experience from these rating areas in an attempt to show justification for the insurance revisions.

Commissioner Bivin, prior to the hearing, announced that he has sent three special deputies to the NBCU office in New York to verify the accuracy of the date compilations made by the agency.

Protesting the rate changes are the Louisville Automobile Club, the Kentucky Association of Trial Lawyers and the Kentucky Automobile Dealers Association.

Bivin told the protestants that the three deputies would explain their finding during the course of the hearings.

Dr. John E. McGuiness, an acturial consultant hired by the insurance department, is certified, advising that the proposed changes for passenger cars are reserved.

Daniel J. McNamara, NBCU secretary, in testimony, explained that present rates are insufficient to pay the cost of claims and the operating expenses of the insurance companies. The NBCU has 137 affiliated companies which write about 30 per cent of the automobile liability insurance business in Kentucky, said McNamara.

Should the rates be revised, insurance companies not represented by the national rating agencies, the independents, make separate filings for the rates revision, which are acted on individually, Commissioner Bivin stated.

UTOPIA CLUB ELECTS

North Central 4H Club Camp Builds Fallout Shelter

They built the North Central Kentucky 4-H Club Camp in Nicholas County for pleasure—but it has a survival element included.

The dining hall-kitchen combination, a large 38 X 68-foot building, now has a most useful fallout shelter in its spacious basement.

It's there because UK Cooperative Extension Service rural defense specialists Kermit Millis and Kenneth Evans recommended its inclusion.

Heavy, pre-cast, prestressed concrete beams in the shape of a "T" are used in the basement as supports for the floor. When these supports were installed the cross-bars of their "T's" actually formed a complete floor. Over that the camp's builders poured a four-inch thick concrete floor.

Result; A fallout shelter with a six-inch solid concrete roof. This will furnish excellent protection against fallout. It will hold about 250 persons.

Two water heaters in the basement would provide some drinking water, plus that tapped in the various building pipes, says Kenneth Evans. A swimming pool just outside the basement entrance could provide water, too, provided fallout was prevented from getting into it by a proper cover.

"The fallout shelter at a recreational center illustrates two things we've been trying to get over to the public," says Millis. "One is that on any new construction, provisions ought to be made then for a shelter. Second, the value of a basement; it provides much useful space for ordinary living and would be of considerable value for fallout shelter in case of atomic attack."

The two specialists, saying that "no new residential building ought to be constructed now in Kentucky without a basement," point out that basements may have good "protection factors."

Missionary To Korea To Speak Here Friday

Rev. Harold Taylor will speak at the local Christian Church this Friday night, Dec. 3. A covered-dish meal will be served at 6:30 p.m. and Bro. Taylor will speak at 7:30 a.m.

Bro. Taylor, from near Kansas City, Mo., went to W. China in 1937. He was sponsored by Johnson Bible College for his first term on the mission field. In 1940, he married Ada Sayer of near Fresno, Calif. Until their first furlough, The Taylor's work was centered at Tali, W. China. In 1941, the Japanese were at war with China. The Taylors returned to the U.S. just before "Pearl Harbor."

After finishing Bible College and 1 1/2 years of Chinese language at the University of Calif., Harold and family, now including two sons, Leland and Glenn returned to W. China. This time the Communists presented their problem, forcing them to stay in Kunming instead of returning to Tali, farther interior. But a very fruitful ministry waited them in Kunming. Then the Communists came and they had to leave China in 1949.
