
NEW MATH ANYONE ? ? Time is drawing close to the end for 28 studious pupils who have been burning the "midnight oil" studying Education 576 or Modern Math, with Dr. Leon Forter, of the University of Kentucky, doing the "coaching". We have been subtracting, multiplying and adding Egyptian symbols, working SETS, and figuring bases (especially two, seven, and, yes, twelve), the commutative, associative and distributive properties of operations for addition and multiplication. WHY? An increased emphasis is being placed on the structural aspects of mathematics and also an attempt to show the "why" of arithmetical computation. The first twelve lessons have been interesting and enlightening. So if you are not sure 4 plus 4 equals 13, and a straight line drawn from point A to point B is a curve, or which property of operation to use, ask anyone you may recognize in the picture(s).

PHONE OPERATORS LAUDED

Operators at the Carlisle Southern Bell Tel & Tel exchange perform many tasks other than the familiar number please. Two instances, in two days, point up their usefulness. Mrs. Matthew Campbell called to commend the operators for being so kind and helpful when her neighbor's house caught fire and an elderly lady was burned. She was upset and could not recall her numbers. The operators assisted in every way possible. In the second instance Mrs. Luther Hollar called the operator (Mrs. Bettye Ritchie) and asked her to get someone quickly to aid her. Her grandchild, with whom she was baby sitting, was having convulsions. Since Mrs. Hollar was hysterical at the time, the operator questioned her about whom she should call. The operator called Mrs. Hollar's daughter at Blue Grass Industries and advised them the call was an emergency. While Mrs. Hollar was talking with her daughter, the operator located Dr. Kingsolver and had him on the line for Mrs. Hollar. In the excitement, she hung up and the operator rang her back. While she was talking with Dr. Kingsolver, the operator called an ambulance and sent it to the home. Shown are Mrs. Dudley Link, Mrs. Fred Chumbler Jr. and Mrs. John R. Glass, Carlisle operators.

Rev. James A. Norsworthy officiated the service.

Telephone Talk
by Your Telephone Manager
CHARLES A. HARRIS

THERE'LL BE A CHANGE IN YOUR PHONE BILL BEGINNING NEXT JANUARY. That's right. The recent cut in the Federal Excise Tax is making a difference in many things, including your phone bill! The tax cut on telephone service will be gradual over a period of 4 years, beginning with a decrease from the present 10% to 3% in January. This table shows what the tax cut will mean to the average Kentucky telephone customer.

	Average Annual Excise Tax Paid by Kentucky Telephone Customers	Average Annual Savings
1965	$15.05	------
1966	4.52	$10.53
1967	3.01	12.04
1968	1.51	13.54
1969	-----	15.05

Your telephone bill will reflect this change in January. But telephone service will continue as usual ... quick, dependable, convenient. The best possible telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

Looking for the perfect Xmas Gift?
Why not give an extension telephone?
There is no connection charge so the gift will cost you only pennies a day. We will wrap and deliver the extension telephone and install it at your convenience.

YOU'VE PROBABLY HEARD THE TERM "DON'T OVER-EXTEND YOURSELF." Don't try to do too much in too little time, or you'll end up doing nothing right! Well, that's good advice. But we have some advice that's even better. Do extend yourself with extension telephones. Extension phones help you save time because you can reach instead of running when the phone rings! An extension in the kitchen lets mom talk to neighbors while she cooks. An extension in the den gives dad a place for private business calls. And, of course, every teenager needs a phone of his own to make those very personal calls to the girlfriend. So remember, you can extend yourself . . . with extension phones. They come in several styles and colors. So why not call our Business Office about extension phones for your home, now?
