Attend Speech Tournament

By Allen Waugh

"Carol, what are you taking for lunch?" Mrs. Whitt, will you listen to my poem once more?" These questions and many others were heard Saturday morning as 13 students boarded bus number 8 that was bound for the Harrison County speech tournament.

Mrs. Minton Whitt and Mrs. R. S. Wills, Jr. accompanied the lucky 13, nine of which were competing for the first title for honors against such schools as George Rogers Clark, Henry Clay, Covington Catholic, Notre Dame Academy, Villa Madona, and others.

In the radio speaking event Allen Waugh was rated twice as the first speaker in the contest of 14 speakers.

Superior rating went to Allen Waugh, radio speaking; Ginger Hamm, humerous interpretation; Sharon Scott and Elain Shanding, poetry.

Also participating were Bonna Hilander and Gary Broderick, extemperaneous speaking Carol Marshall, dramatic interpretation; Mary Ellen Stone, original oratory; Carolyn Jolly and Joyce McDonald, prose; Peggy Bretz, radio speaking; and Susan Small and Jane Talbert, duet acting.

Prang's first cards sold for only a penny and were small by modern standards. Prang was a German refugee who had established a successful business selling visiting cards, business advertisements and announcements, both in Boston and in England.

Prang commissioned work from American artists Elihu Vedder, Douglas Volk and J. Alden Weir. All have been forgotten, but each was a fine artist.
