Nope not at all, but when both ankles hurt, guess we'd better follow the doctor's orders, if only in part, and get that injured ankle for a few minutes. And a few moments it was, we'd no more than gotten settled, than the fellow from Bath County decided on taking a picture. Then he couldn't find the film, so up again. Then we were instructed to assume the previous position. Frankly when the flash bulb went off we thought we were in orbit.

It's winter again, and every mother knows what that means: Rain and snow. Kids coming in from sled dipping wet and wanting to go right back out again. The solution? It used to be a second snow-suit. But no more.
