HOG MARKET TO HOLD UP STRONG
Reports from all available sources indicate that the present hog market will hold up throughout 1966. The main reason is that there are just not enough sows available for breeding due to the extremely high new market and the number of gilts being sold as finishing hogs. The hog herd is to go on a fast efficient growth on pigs farrowed early in 1965 have them at 80 pounds fat on Purina's famous "Fast Start Twins" with

NOTICE—I wish to thank every one for their kindness shown to me while I was a patient in the Nicholas County Hospital. I was directed by the butts of the ambulance. I was made to make the shulker. These hospital beds were easily distributed about every two feet in diameter. The site was convenient to both parties and mountain game. Live Apache Dwellings. The branches were probably bent and tied in the middle and then covered with hides of skins, much like a modern Apache wicking, a type of Indian bed used in the West. The floors of the structures contained boxes of bones and other animals that the people had killed and a number of fine examples of flint tools.

EARLIEST HOUSES DISCOVERED
An expedition sponsored by the National Geographic Society and the University of Kentucky has discovered the earliest houses known anywhere in the Americas. The remains of two circular huts built by Paleo-Indian people about 10,000 years ago were uncovered at Hell Gap, near Guthrie, Wyo. The site has been excavated for five years.

The houses at Hell Gap are the earliest known in the Western Hemisphere, said a professor at the University of Kentucky. Dr. Brew, director of the museum and warmer in winter and cooler in summer than surrounding lands. In ancient times a stream flowed through the valley, and it was along this stream that one tribe after another set up camps. Besides offering water and protection from the weather, the site was convenient to both parties and mountain game. Nearby was a quarry where stone tools could be chipped. Because of the washing down of earth in the valley, each of the occupation sites became covered in dirt. Modern excavators peel off these levels of dirt and debris one by one to reveal the changes in the way of life that tools, camp debris, and settlement patterns can tell.

The archeologists have found evidence of occupation "considerably" before the time of the flint tools. The earliest tools for this most ancient period are limited to a few flint flakes and some charcoal. From a later period, the archeologists report an unfinished spear point 11 inches long. The weapon was speared by a flint in the stone; the person who worked it thus-and social security—are worried about the threat of inflation. I forecast no radical inflation during 1966. . . the Administration is committed to "non-inflationary programs". However, some price increases appear unavoidable.

25. I predict that the greater danger will be in credit inflation rather than in price inflation.

26. With the rise in defense spending and the cost of legislation for the Great Society, the federal budget will suffer a sizable deficit. In addition, states and municipalities are unable and unwilling to live within their means. Consumers will also go further into debt.

27. Look for new increases in the cost-of-living index. The government may try to head off substantial price hikes in key areas, but selective price rises will occur.

28. Industrial commodity prices should remain firm to higher, particularly in the first half of 1966. The primary bulwark against a price run-up is competition, which should be basically more effective than government influence.

29. I look for an increase in domestic competition in 1966. This should become more evident as the business upturn tapers off. Also, we must not forget foreign competition. With many nations feeling the pinch of a dollar shortage, they will work to remedy this by increasing their sales here.

30. Business in 1966 need fear no major labor tie-ups. Strikes, however, may well be numerous among the secondary labor units.

31. I look for business failures to increase, both in numbers and in dollar liabilities. This will come out of stock market competition, excess of debt and inventory accumulations, unwise credit extensions, and careless management.

32. Of greater concern to me is the steady climb in nonfarm real estate foreclosures. I expect a further rise in 1966.

33. Business profits in 1966 will not advance sharply as in the past two or three years. The squeeze is on profit margins; hence I look for a tapering off in the rise of corporate profits, although I foresee a dramatic slump while activity holds near peak.

34. Looking at the farm sector, I see no radical change from the excellent 1965 year. Having a crop failure or severe drought, farm prices, at worst, should show only slight lower.

35. Farm equipment manufacturers should enjoy good business in 1966. This goes also for fertilizer and pesticide producers.

36. The important business and construction lines should hold their own in 1966, but their dollar volume may be due largely to price and cost inflation. The Great Society program is a plus factor for construction, including urban renewal and highways.

37. Private home and apartment building could show slight improvement, but the real boom in residential building will not register significantly in 1966.

38. Hence, I forecast that real estate conditions remain selective. Well-located sites for homes and industrial and commercial complexes will do well, but study of local conditions is imperative.

39. I predict a further increase in farm land values in 1966. With costs still rising, the physical size of farms must expand to operators with cash dividend payments in 1966. I forecast they will show another increase. I would also expect a rash of stock dividends and stock splits, particularly in the first half of the year.

47. If businessmen, consumers, and investors do not act voluntarily to keep inflationary pressures and speculation from getting out of hand, the monetary authorities may be forced to raise margin requirements on stock purchases, and perhaps tighten credit further.

48. Look for somewhat lower bond prices in 1966. Although we are not in immediate danger of credit exhaustion, the banking system is under some strain from the rapid expansion of credit in recent years. My advice is to buy bonds which mature in five years or less. The time to buy good longer-term bonds will come when the yields on short-term bonds exceed those on long-term issues.

49. The dollar will not be devalued in 1966. Possibility of devaluation of the British pound will undoubtedly come to the fore again, but additional effort will probably be made to keep the pound from "going under". I fear, however, that all this is only "buying time" that devaluation of the pound may be inevitable.

50. I foresee no cure for the outflow of gold from America's shores in 1966. However, in view of the importance of the U.S. in international trade and world military considerations, foreign bankers will be reluctant to withdraw their gold en masse. Bear in mind also that there is no country that maintains a gold and military might... and that, among the leading nations, the United States has suffered least in terms of the ravages of inflation and political instability.
