Parka Homemakers
By Mrs. S. Holler

The Parka Homemakers Club met with Mrs. Rubel Williams, Thursday, Jan. 7 at 10:30 a.m. with eleven members present and Mrs. Mary Wilson.

Mrs. Rubel Williams, president called the meeting to order and was in charge of the business session.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Warner Lowe. The 24th Psalm followed by a prayer.

Holl Call was answered by "What I received for Christmas".

The lesson on "Picture Frames" was given, after lunch, by Mrs. Rubel Williams and Mrs. Floyd Williams. First, Remember, the finish on the picture should complement and enhance the picture. Second: The finish should harmonize with the picture. Third: The color and texture of the frame should blend with the picture and the surrounding rather than dominate them. Fourth: Change the finish on a frame which is too dominant in color or texture and the frame becomes unsuitable.

Mrs. Williams showed several drawings and paintings done by her mother that were quite interesting and beautiful.

Our Feb. meeting will be on the 4th at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Emery Clark.

FARM FACTS.

girl owes his education to a sacrificing mother and a good flock of chickens.

Now look what's happened to the poultry flock. Most modern farms don't keep any hens at all. It's cheaper to buy eggs and fryers at the store. It's not only a man's job—it's an expert businesswoman's job. The producer either produces eggs or broilers in large quantities or he doesn't produce any at all. A 10,000 hen laying flock or a 10,000 broiler house are now considered the minimum in size, and that's not all. These individual units must now be a part of a larger, complex consisting of ten or more producing units, feed and service supply. This big change has been brought about by the change in the retail grocery stores. It is estimated that 75 percent or more of the eggs sold in Kentucky go through supermarkets with the big chains getting the major share of that strictly by price. In large quantities and from dependable and uniform sources.

The most difficult problem posed by the change has been that of financing. In my early days as County Agent I helped many a family get started with poultry farms with the expenditure of a few dollars for eggs or chicks. Some time it was a "pull-out plan" whereby the farmer would receive a pullet in the fall for each "setting" of eggs he or she received. Under the present condition the capital requirement to go into an efficient poultry operation could easily run to $30,000 or more for each unit, and that in most cases is out of the realm of the local farmer. Yes, the poultry business "ain't what it used to be."

SOCIAL SECURITY
NOTE: Questions for this column should be directed to: "Questions," Social Security Administration District Office, 500 Winchester Road, Lexington, Kentucky.

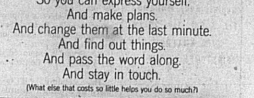

Question: My wife and I receive benefits. Can each drop out five low years combined for both of us?

Answer: The test is on each individual separately. Each can make $1200 and collect all benefits and if either has earnings of over $1200, benefit payments will be affected.

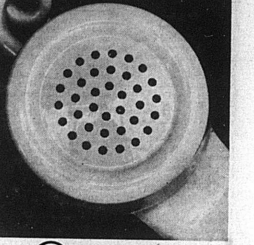

Question: Do earnings have anything to do with Social Security payments?

Answer: Yes, all benefits received benefits. Can each drop out five low years and all other years up to death or retirement age are used in figuring benefits.

"Putting electric heating in our new home was a real blue chip investment in better living and lasting home value."

"When we built our new home we decided to change to electric heat," says Mr. Boydell. "And we wouldn't trade back to our old heating for anything. It's not only economical to use, but it even saves us money in other places. Certainly saves on cleaning bills, and with this system, maintenance costs are negligible."

But best of all to Mr. Boydell are the individual room controls. "Now everyone can regulate their bedroom to the heat they want, and there aren't any always-cold rooms in the house."

If you're planning to build or buy a new home, take the advice of Mr. and Mrs. Boydell, and get this basic part of "the joy of total electric living."
