Miss Peden To Aid Arthritics

The Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation today named Miss Katherine Peden, State Commerce Commissioner, to head its 1965 State Campaign for funds to fight arthritis in Kentucky. The drive for support of the health group's program will begin its advance activity on August 1, leading up to the door-to-door campaign on A-Day, Tuesday, September 14.

Chapter President, John C. Norman, expressed confidence that Miss Peden's acceptance of the voluntary post as General Chairman will bolster the chapter's efforts to expand services to the more than 250,000 arthritis sufferers in Kentucky. Miss Peden feels that there should be no let-up in the struggle to improve patient care and to increase research efforts in arthritis. "No one is immune from this crippling disease", she said. "Arthritis does not discriminate between the young or the old, or between men and women. During the coming year, some quarter of a million new victims will join the nation's more than 12,000,000 sufferers, and thousands of these new victims will be fellow Kentuckians."

Funds raised in the coming drive wil go to improve treatment services for Kentucky arthritics and help step up nationwide efforts to find a cure for the disease. The 1965 Kentucky Chapter goal is $136,000 to be used for treatment centers, traveling clinics, education and research.

Employment Service To Aid Retiring Military Personnel

Retiring military personnel may find the transition to civilian life easier in the future because of an active program now under way in Kentucky and every other State which has a major military installation. The nationwide program is designed to help retiring military personnel find civilian jobs for which they are qualified.

According to L. J. Foster, Manager of Kentucky Employment Service local office at 300 South Upper Street, Lexington, the program is a "cooperative effort between the Kentucky State Employment Service and the Department of Defense to aid adjustment of military retirees from service to civilian jobs. This objective is being done through employment orientation, counseling, testing, and placement assistance."

"The program," Mr. Foster said, "Will give the retiree a realistic attitued about salaries and job duties, and the possible need for training. It is also designed to help overcome part of some employers because of the age of most military retirees. The average retiree is in his middle forties."

Military retirees generally fall into two categories: Those who are well qualified for civilian occupations and have developed their own post-retirement plans; those who possess primarily military occupational skills and need intensive assistance in preparation for civilian employment.

Mr. Foster said that his office aims to prepare local military retirees to make the maximum use of their skills and capabilities, and thus to enable them to contribut to the Kentucky or national economy.

"A canoe is like a young boy. It behaves best when paddled from the rear."

Wheat Certificate Program Results

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has reported these results of the wheat certificate program, which completed its first year on June 30:

Wheat farm income for the 1964 crop year will be about $455 million higher then would otherwise have been possible;

Program costs to the tarpayer were over $300 million lower than in the previous fiscal year;

Publicly owned wheat stocks stored at public expense will total 725 million bushels, or some 150 million bushels fewer that at the end of the previous marketing year. Total wheat stocks currently are about 840 million bushels;

Profits to major wheat users thus far in 1965, according to recent surveys, are higher in nearly every case than for the same period in 1964;

Consumer prices for wheat products have remained stable. Bread prices in the past 12 months have averaged around 21 cents a loaf or less, virtually unchanged from the period before the certificate program went into effect;

Wheat exports in the 1965 fiscal year are the second largest in history. Only the 1964 fiscal year, which included substantial sales to the Soviet Union, was larger.

Kosair Campaign Seeks Kentuckians Support

The 1965 Operating Fund Campaign of Kosair Crippled Children Hospital in Louisville is nearly ready to enter its final stages. The Campaign is over halfway toward this year's goal of $225,000., but there is still almost another $100,000. that must be raised if the campaign is to be a success. It is in raising the rest of this money that Kosair Hospital urgently needs the unfailing and generous support of the people of Kentucky.

For 38 years the Kosair Hospital has been relentlessly treating the indigent crippled children of Kentucky. Thirty-eight years that have seen over eight thousand crippled children from every county in our state enter the "House of Dreams" asking Kosair to help them to walk and to run.

In order to be admitted to the Hospital a child must meet only two requirements. First of all, the child must be suffering from some crippling bone or neurological ailment, and secondly, the child's parents must be unable to afford the necessary medical treatment. All patients are selected for admission by a state agency, the Commission for Handicapped Children.

After selection these children are treated free regardless of race or of religion. But just because these children are treated free of charge, don't think for one minute that they are charity cases. It is never charity when a good, sound investment has been made today which will pay dividends in the future. The vast majority of patients have left Kosair to become productive members of their respective communities. But without Kosair's help many of these patients would have had to spend their lives as invalids unable to walk to use their hands or legs and in some cases even unable to change positions.

However, the good that Kosair Hospital has done for these crippled children is no more meaningful that what the people of Kentucky have done for the Hospital itself. Without the generous support of the citizens of our state there would still be over 8,000 crippled children in Kentucky who would have never been able to take that first step toward a normal life.

Kosair Hospital can't do the job alone. It needs your help now and will continue to need it as long as crippled children are born in the state of Kentucky. Now is the time to lend your support to the indigent crippled children of our state by mailing a contribution to the Kosair Crippled Children Hospital, 982 Eastern Parkway in Louisville. Do it today!

Be one of the thousands of other Kentuckians who are bending down today so that a crippled child may stand straight tomorrow.
