No Need For Alarm Allison Says

A. V. Allison, Nicholas County Tax Commissioner, stated Wednesday that many tax-payers have been calling him about the recent court ruling relative to assessments of property.

Mr. Allison says "There was no other way for the Court to rule other than according to the Constitution.

"It is not the intent of the Courts to raise anyone's taxes. Some people have the idea that their taxes will be three times what they are at present. This is not true, everyone will pay according to the full value of their property and surely the next session of the Kentucky Legislature will adjust tax rates in a fair and just way for all.

"Local taxes will perhaps be some higher, but not three times as some people believe.

"More information will be in the papers from time to time about this matter.

"I ask that the tax-payers of Nicholas County not become alarmed about this matter".
