Meeting for Country Ham Processors Scheduled

Everyone processing or merchandising country-style ham—or interested in this enterprise—should plan to attend one of the meetings on this subject, which will be held around the state in June and July. Representatives of electric power companies and refrigeration firms are also invited to attend the meetings. The meetings subjects will be covered: curing formulations and procedures, aging procedures, buildings and facilities, protection from insect damage, and new techniques in merchandising. W. Varney, Cooperative Extension Specialist in Meats, University of Kentucky, is in charge of the meetings. All meetings will begin at 7:00 p.m. The two places closest to us are: Lexington/Meats Laboratory, University of Kentucky, Lexington, N.E.C. 450; and Mason, N.E.C. 450.

Good Food Housekeeping

It means shopping carefully, using all the food knowledge available, and also keeping in mind the likes, dislikes and nutritional needs of your family. Good food housekeeping also includes an honest assessment of the value of your time for cooking and shopping, and the keeping of a sharp eye on extra costs for a sharp term. Reading labels and taking time to do a little calculation to determine cost per pound and cost per serving are included in good food housekeeping. It may mean getting acquainted with your food, so that you can determine the best days and times for shopping, the store layout, and the brands that are best.

Food housekeeping doesn't stop at the store, but follows you home with your purchases. It means getting home quickly after you buy your food and storing the items properly as soon as you get them. All these good housekeeping features on food still need a follow-up. The best way to do this is as such food will seem even better if it appears to the eye as well as the palate, desirable for a small family meal for a special-occasion dinner.

Summer Management of Permanent Plant-beds
When setting is completed, the plant beds should be plowed to destroy the remaining plants. The soil should be thoroughly prepared to provide a good seedbed, and seeded to cover, soy beans, or some other crop. A mulch of organic material should be applied to provide a dense covering during the summer. The soil should be kept moist, and the plants should be watered as needed.

Permanent plant-beds with a heavy growth of summer legume are helpful in controlling weeds, keeping the soil fertile and in good tilth, and in preventing wildlife in the plant-bed and in the field.

WHAT ABOUT WORKERS' RIGHTS?

INDIVIDUAL FREEDOM A MUST

In critical areas throughout the world, Vietnam, Korea, Dominican Republic, Germany (Berlin) and others, our military are "on the alert" to defend the rights of man to be free. The Peace Corps is also working in remote corners of the earth to encourage self-determination and a true understanding and appreciation of freedom. This, thousands of young Americans are sacrificing to bring the fruits of freedom to the world. The Administration is furthering the substitution of force and compulsion for freedom of choice by urging the repeal of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. The Administration take away the freedom of the individual to choose whether or not he wants to join a union in the nine-nines states which have protective rights-to-work laws. In the military, strict discipline is always around the corner. Absolute discipline and control are necessary throughout the line of command. However, in business and industry, absolute employee discipline by union leaders not only undermines individual freedom but also could induce industrial strife. Compulsion has no place in a republic—every American should have the right to work, whether he wants to join a union or not. Freedom of the individual demands the retention of Section 11 (b) on the statute books.

Nearly Every Reader Is A Potential Customer

Every business and profession in the nation have specialized journals devoted to a particular trade. Some trades have dozens of publications listed to them. Some of the publications are elaborate and expensive.

The position of the homestead newspaper is similar to that of the trade journals. The community newspaper continues to flourish as a reader advertising medium because nearly every reader is a potential customer of real retail goods and services.

The grocery store, the department store, the drug store, the variety store, or the bank which advertises in the small newspaper buys 100 per cent circulation. No other advertising medium has the retail selective power of the local newspaper.

The small advertiser has been successfully called "a community trade journal" which serves the local retail firm as a national journal serves a manufacturer or distributor.
