STATE PARKS

New Reservation Service Opened For Parks

Frankfort---Additional facilities for the Central Reservation Service of the Kentucky State parks system went into effect April 15.

Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell said, the Tourist Information Center on the Kentucky Turnpike, near Shepherdsville, now offers reservation service. The attendant at the Information Center will place calls directly to the parks at the request of guests, who can then make their reservations.

Roy Lutz is in charge of the Shepherdsville Information Center.

The State's other Tourist Information Center, at Pineville, will join the Central Reservation Service May 15, Bell added. Mrs. Edith Asher is in charge there.

The Central Reservation Office in State parks headquarters at Frankfort was opened last year and is credited with helping to achieve the record attendance of 14, 243,691 visitors to the 34 parks and shrines in 1964. Free local lines are available to the Frankfort office from Louisville (583-9796), Lexington (252-4913), and the Covington-Cincinnati area (261-2643). Those outside these areas can call the Frankfort office direct (223-2326), or call the park of their choice.

Reservations of some type still are available at many of the vacation parks, Bell pointed out.

He gave this run-down, by parks:

Jenny Wiley (near Prestonsburg): April and May---cottages and rooms available most dates, other than those taken by convention groups; June---some cottages and lodge rooms available early June; July and August---rooms booked on all week ends, all cottages taken.

Buckhorn Lake (in Perry County, near Hazard)--plenty of lodge rooms and cottages other than for Mountain Laurel Festival week end; June---rooms and all types of cottages available; July and August---rooms and efficiency cottages available.

Cumberland Falls (near Corbin): May---lodge booked May 6,7,8, 16,17,19,20,24, but cottages available; June---all types of cottages and rooms available; July and August---all accommodations available except two bedroom cottages.
