Workers Over 65, Eligible For Medicare

Individuals over age 65 and working are still eligible for Medicare, according to Ernest F. Fitzpatrick, District Manager of the Social Security Administration district office in Lexington.

He emphasized that eligibility for monthly benefits is not a requirement. He also pointed out that neither present nor future earnings have any effect on eligibility.

Any such persons age 65 or older who have never filed for social security or railroad retirement should file claims now so they will be eligible when the program starts next July, Fitzpatrick added. Failure to file or delay in filing could cause loss of benefits under the hospitalization plan, or both a delay and an increase in cost under the optional Medical Insurance Coverage.

The District Office in Lexington is located at 950 Wincheater Road. The office hours are 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Friday.

Persons unable to come to Lexington may meet a representative at most county seats. Post Office bulletin boards carry the schedules of these local visits.

Tobacco Marketing Cards Being Mailed Growers

Tobacco marketing cards are being mailed by County ASC Committees so that the grower will receive his marketing card one week before the local auction markets start receiving tobacco. Burley tobacco auction warehouses will open November 19, 1965, to receive and officially weigh tobacco from growers.

The grower should be sure his marketing card is presented to the warehouseman when his tobacco is weighed in at the warehouse. This is necessary and important for the following reasons:

1. To enable the warehouseman to record the marketing card serial number on the warehouse bill (floorsheet). The marketing card serial number must be entered on the warehouse bill (floorsheet) prior to the time the tobacco is offered for sale.

2. To identify whether the tobacco is eligible for price support.

The marketing regulations also provide each producer's tobacco offered for auction sale shall be placed on baskets separate from tobacco produced on any other farm and shall be identified by the marketing card issued for that farm. Producer's tobacco which is "comingled" or "blended" is resale tobacco and not eligible for price support. The producer is required to sign his name on the sales memo in his marketing card with respect to such non-auction purchases by the warehouseman.

Attention! SS Registrants

1. Have you reported your last change of address to your Selective Service board?

2. Are you keeping your board informed of your current marital, occupational, and school status?

In the world today additional emphasis is being given to the field of education. Your Selective Service board is aware that through the furthering of your education and training you will be seeking a better standard of living for yourself and family, and by doing so you will be preserving and extending the American heritage. As a registrant you are encouraged to remain in school to complete your education and training.

Brothers Do Heroic Act

An act of heroism was performed at 7:30 Wednesday morning by two young boys, Dennis Minton, 14, and Stevie Minton, 12, when they discovered a fire at the home of Mrs. Nancy Kennedy, Sycamore Hill. Both entered the house and carried Mrs. Kennedy to safety, gave the alarm, then carried water from a rain barrel until the Carlisle Volunteer Fire Department arrived.

According to Police Chief Eugene Kelley, both youngsters, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Minton, also of Sycamore Hill, will receive certificates for their heroism from the National Police Officers Association, Port Charlotte, Fla.

Mrs. Kennedy received serious burns about the face and head, Chief Kelley stated. She was removed to the Nicholas County Hospital for treatment.

The fire, confined to the kitchen, was caused by a flame-up of a kerosene stove. Considerable damage was done to that section of the residence.

Two Nicholas School Board Men Ruled Ineligible

By FRED W. LUIGART JR.
Courier-Journal Bluegrass Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Former Nicholas County school superintendent Raymond J. Wesley won a victory in the Kentucky Court of Appeals yesterday that could return him to office.

The court ruled that Robert O. Coatney and Vernon Craig, two of the four members on the seven-man board who voted on May 6 to oust Wesley as superintendent and treasurer of the county school system—are ineligible to serve on the board.

As a result of the ruling, the balance of power on the board—which was 4 to 3 against Wesley when the ouster vote was taken—is now apparently 3 to 2 in his favor.

The court's ruling came on an appeal from a suit filed in Nicholas Circuit Court by Wesley and the state attorney general's office which accused Coatney and Craig of violating KRS 160.180.

Interest Conflict Banned

The statute provides that a board member, or candidate for election to a school board, cannot do business with the board.

The suit charged:

Craig was in the employ of the Nicholas County school system when he was elected to the board in November 1962 and wasn't released from his contract as a school bus driver until after his election.

Coatney was a stockholder in a Carlisle grocery firm that did business with the county school system during two months of 1963 while he was serving as a member of the board.

The suits were dismissed in Nicholas Circuit Court by Judge John Lair.

In reversing Judge Lair, the Court of Appeals said in an opinion by Judge Edward Hill that while "it may be true the transactions were trivial and that there was no intention to defraud or to violate the statute," the law nevertheless was enacted "to eliminate possible conflicts of interest of board members at the time of their election as well as after the election."

Language Is Comprehensive

"The language (of the statute) is comprehensive and emphatic," Judge Hill said. "The legislature clearly demonstrated its intention to enact a positive, firm and unqualified law," by the language it used in constructing the statute.

The court concluded Coatney and Craig violated the letter and spirit of the statute and thereby automatically vacated their respective offices.

Still pending before the Court of Appeals is an appeal by Wesley of the board's ouster action. He had been superintendent 19 years. Otis Fryman, a board officer, is temporary superintendent.

Royalty Comes In Fours

The Queen and King of the annual Fall Festival, Karlyn Coatney and Dennis Allison are flanked by, at left, Jean Moreland, Princess, and right, Philip Bowles, Prince. Their cornation was held last Friday evening at the Carlisle Armory.
