One "Whale" Of A Player

Rick Norton stood taller in defeat. An uninspired Kentucky team fell from its lofty perch Saturday in Auburn, Alabama, as the host Auburn Tigers pounded the Wildcats 23 to 18. It would have been a complete rout except for senior quarterback Rick Norton. He stood up in the face of charging Auburn linemen, took tremendous physical abuse, and threw three long touchdown aerials that kept Kentucky in the game to the bitter end. Norton passed for 269 yards against Auburn, a phenomenal afternoon for any quarterback in any game. Kentucky lost, and Norton undoubtedly will get little recognition for a "whale" of a football game.

Norton, throughout his career at UK, has probably been the most ignored "star" in the nation. As a sophomore he passed for the third most yardage for a rookie in Southeastern Conference history. At one stretch he threw 88 passes without an interception, an SEC record. Yet no laurels were passed Norton's way at the season's end.

He came back last year as a junior and led the Southeastern Conference in both passing and total offense. He didn't even rate a mention on the all-conference teams, the first time in SEC history a player had gained so much yardage, and been ignored in the all-conference honors.

Regardless of what fortunes await Kentucky the remainder of the season, Rick Norton no longer can be ignored. He has passed for 620 yards in Kentucky's first three games. Rick needs 1,040 yards through the air in Kentucky's remaining seven contests, to equal the UK record established by the "sweet Kentucky babe," Babe Parilli.

Kentucky Coach Charlie Bradshaw says Norton has not had a bad game this season. He regards his senior quarterback as the best passer in the country, and the credentials Rick has provided for himself on the field, has made his coach's prediction look good. Rick Norton has never looked better or shown more courage and determination than he did in defeat last Saturday at Auburn. He is one "whale" of a football player.

VA Joins Bond Parade

Frankfort, Oct. 6----Virginia is the latest state to join the list of states discussing the issuance of bonds to provide funds for meeting highway financing problems, Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward said here today.

Ward quoted Douglas B. Fugate, Commissioner of the State Highway Department of Virginia, as saying the arterial highway construction program is "falling behind rapidly" in Virginia. Commissioner Fugate recently said that to keep the Virginia State Program on schedule, $52.5 million is needed annually until completion in 1975. Last year, $30,000,000 was allocated to the program, Fugate added.

The arterial and primary road expansion faces an estimated shortage of $150 million; the secondary road system lacks $95 mil lon and the urban expressway program lacks $78 million, Commissioner Fugate added.

Recent discussions in Virginia suggest the possibility of issuing $250,000,000 worth of bonds to provide funds for the highway department to meet the accelerated construction program in that state, Ward said. He quoted State Senator William F. Stone, one of Virginia's Democratic leaders, as suggesting the possibility of selling bonds for highway construction in order to meet the immediate need.

Ward pointed out that this development for Virginia is significant because of the historical background of Virginia's leaders in urging a very conservative approach to financing of governmental obligations.

ROAD FUND EARNS OVER NINE MILLION

Frankfort -- The State Road Fund has earned a total of $9,033,835 on reinvestment of proceeds from the 1956 and 1960 bond issues for highway purposes, Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward said today.

"Under the direction of the Department of Finance, proceeds from these bond issues have been managed in such a way that the Road Fund has benefited materially," Ward said.

Bonds are sold in advance only when they can be reinvested at a higher rate of interest than the rate pays on the bonds themselves. A total of $7,277,903 has been earned by this method of investment of proceeds of the $100 million bond issue of 1956 and $1,805,887 has been earned from the $90 million 1960 issue.

"Proceeds from the bond issues of 1956 and 1960 can be used only for matching federal aid on highway construction projects. The same will be true of the $139,000,000 to be voted on at the November 2nd election. Federal funds are made available by Congress on an annual basis. Therefore, it is necessary to issue only enough bonds to match federal

NATIONAL SCHOOL LUNCH WEEK

All over the nation schools are observing National School Lunch Week, October 10-16, In Nicholas County the school lunch programs have put up posters and are calling attention to the slogan "School Lunch Serves Child Health." During the first month of school an average of 1231 meals were served daily.

The success of the school lunch program depends upon a high per cent of participation, and Nicholas County the following record was set:

Carlisle -- 75.8%; Moorefield - 93%; Nicholas County Elementary-97%; Nicholas County High School-94%.

The responsibility of parents in the school lunch program is to see that their children take advantage of this health providing activity.

School lunch personnel make a sincere effort to prepare food which provides about one-third of the nutrients required for growing children. Pupils will realize the benefits of these carefully prepared menus if they eat the food given them on Type A lunch plate at a minimum cost of 20-25¢ per meal.

Because the child is getting a good meal at school does not mean, however, that parents can now be less concerned with the other meals for the day. Send your child off to school with a good breakfast and welcome him home with a warm dinner at night, suggests Mrs. Elizabeth Clay, Nicholas County School Lunch Director.
