how limestone helps keep your farm productive

When you apply limestone to your farm land you accomplish several important things at one and the same time.

- You replace the calcium and magnesium (lime) that have been lost through cropping, erosion, and leaching.
- The acid condition of your soil, that has developed as the result of the loss of lime, is corrected; that is, the soil is "sweetened."
- The activity of favorable bacteria is stimulated; the decay of organic matter, such as manure, straw, roots, and stubble, is hastened; and the nitrogen-fixing processes are promoted.
- Other plant foods, especially phosphorus, are kept in more available form.
- Soil structure is improved; heavy clays and silts are made looser and easier to till.

Line a part of your farm each year and make this operation a regular part of your farm program.
