Electric cooking is flamelessly clean, automatic, fast and cool

Not only is cooking fast and easy with an electric range (automatic controls, even self-adjusting surface units if you wish)—but there's less cleaning in the kitchen. Electricity simply can't make dirt to soil walls and curtains. It's cool cooking, too, with contact heat that cooks the food not the cook—makes it pleasant to work in your kitchen.

No wonder the best for cooking—an electric range—is a real step up to the joy of total electric living. Buy one from your dealer soon. We'll help pay for any additional wiring needed.

FREE with your new electric range

UP TO $35 ON YOUR WIRING BILL IF YOU BUY AN ELECTRIC RANGE NOW! If you change from 2-wire to 3-wire, 100-ampere service, and install an electric range, we'll pay $35 on your wiring bill. If you have 3-wire service and install an electric range, we'll pay $15 toward additional wiring needed. Offer good to November 30, 1965 so see your KU manager for eligibility.

ANOTHER AERIAL VIEW--Since many of our readers seemed to enjoy the aerial view pictured on the front page last week, (incidentally it was a section of the Myers road near Loyd Evans), we took the trouble to dig-up some old zinc halftones from our letterpress days and will from time to time test your memory. Can you remember the one above? It was published several years ago in The Mercury as a "mystery farm" series.

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By Gov. Edward T. Breathitt

Frankfort---

The State of Kentucky is offering its University and State college systems this September higher education opportunities to some 43,000 students.

This figure includes a record enrollment of 12,343 on the campus of the University of Kentucky at Lexington. It represents an increase of more than 20 per cent--about 8,000 more students on all the State campuses--since I took office in 1963.

This figure includes a record enrollment of 12, To meet the demands of this rise in enrollment, the skylines of our campuses are changing significantly with rapid construction of new classroom buildings and dormitories.

During the nearly two years that have elapsed since my inauguration, we have engaged 500 new instructors and professors to serve on the faculties of the university, its nine community colleges, and the five State colleges.

A total of 10,000 new dormitory rooms, providing campus accommodations for 20,000 young men and women, have been constructed in those 22 months. Hundreds of classrooms have been built, including those in the new law and commerce buildings at the University of Kentucky.

These achievements were made possible with the help of the largest appropriation ever made in the history of the State's higher education program--a total of $92 million from the general fund, approved by the 1964 Kentucky Legislature for this biennium. This was $30 million more than in 1962.

Recent passage by the U. S. Senate of the President's $4.7 billion higher education bill, coupled with Kentucky's community college program, will enable thousands of young Kentuckians to continue their education and develop their talents.

Under provisions of the national legislation, needy students may obtain grants ranging from $500 to $1,000. Provision also is made for student loans and assistance in procuring jobs under a work-study plan.

Nearly 5,000 students are enrolled this year in U. K.'s community colleges. That figure will soon double and as it grows, the State will find itself obligated to increase funds for these institutions.

Much of what is necessary to "promote and provide for this and other phases of higher education in Kentucky can come through passage in the November 2 election, of the State's proposed $176 million bond issue.

Earmarked for the university and the colleges in the bond issue is $17 million. When matched with available Federal funds this will provide an $87 million higher education building program for Kentucky.

The Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education predicts that 95,475 students will be enrolled in the state's public and private universities and colleges by 1970. I will be proud of this program.

Kentucky's colleges today are Kentucky's hopes for success in the serious competition in which she is now engaged with other states for more industry, more productive farms, more tourists, better highways and higher per capita income.

Kentucky's colleges must train men and women who can bring the benefits of modern technology to every county in the state, who can help create the framework of economic advance on which prosperity depends.

Kentucky's colleges must serve as centers in which her young people can acquire the knowledge to run the factories, teach in the schools, manage the business, farm the land, and staff the governments.
