Services conducted at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at W.R. Milward by the Rev. W.C. Burris. Burial in Hillcrest Memorial Park.

ONE-TIME CHICKEN HOUSE IS HEADQUARTERS for the Barren River Unit of the Central Kentucky Forestry District. The new headquarters, with a 110-foot steel antenna and two-way radio system, provides forest-fire protection for Warren, Barren, Edmonson, Allen and Simpson counties. The reconverted building is leased by the forestry division in the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources. Forestry officials say it symbolizes an end to years of frustration to the State's attempts to provide adequate forest-fire protection to the area.

How does all of this effect the relationship between men and women? Psychologist Richard Farson, said that women are becoming increasingly dominant but at the same time fear that they will be the dominant partner in the marriage. He also said marriage is no longer based on traditional economic need. Relationships are based more on affection. "The rising divorce rate," he said, "doesn't necessarily reflect poorer marriages — it could be that marriage is better than ever, and that improvements have brought higher expectations and more discontent."
