LETTER TO THE EDITOR: By I'm a Pore Farmer

It is the consideration of the writer of this article that he in no way has meant to defame the intelligence, character or integrity of the one

Mr. or Mrs. or Miss Teacher says that there has been a great deal of controversy concerning the salaries of teachers. So far as I know there has been little or no controversy concerning the income of the average farmer. To those who are concerned about the world in which they live this writer would like to express himself by saying what would become of me if I were not a farmer?

MERCURY VAPOURS

Every time we run a picture of a snow that it means nature attempts to out-do herself. On page ten is shown a drifting snow that came in November and lasted into early in Tuesday morning's Courier-Journal. And whiskey production tax has been introduced and has caused little excitement here since it has not been put in line for passage. It provides for taking out two cents a year for five years to make up this loss of revenue. Distillers also would bring their advantage tax up for all years, plus six per cent interest, when withdrawn from the warehouse.

The governor declared was last summer against pinball machines but he has given no indication when he may turn his legislative gun against what he has called an invidious business that takes money from children.

Another bill that is viewed here as one that will be controversial is his proposed measure to require automobile inspection every year. He has also introduced a bill that after paying all bills, taxes, interest, payment on mortgages he has exactly $346.27 left to support himself, his wife and a couple of kids who we think are angels but teacher considers a detriment to his health and well-being.

Good luck to dear teacher in his endeavor to receive more pay. Maybe he or she and his fellow teachers would then be able to pool their resources and start loaning the poor farmers and small business men of the county large sums of money at a high rate of interest, in so doing teacher would not have to worry about anything especially baby-sitting.
