Is your life—and perhaps the lives of your loved ones—endangered by carbon monoxide from your car's exhaust system? It is possible, because carbon monoxide, called the "creeping killer", is coloriess, tastless, non-irritating and almost orderiess. It can kill with minutes, derieas. It can kill within minutes, depending upon the concentration breathed into your lungs.

Each year, more than 350 persons are victims of this deadly gas. This includes motorists who wirm upheir cars with the garage door closed, auto mechanics who repair cars in closed garages, and persons who sit closed garages, and persons who sit minutes.

Statistics cannot prove how many muscular control and increased pulse and reapfration, at night and the II you're driving at night and the III you're driving at night and the glare of the lights brighter, carbon monoxide may well be the reason. The only cures are to have plenty and exhaust pipe checked frequently. Never drive in a completely shut car. Remember, carbon monoxide is the 'creeping killer.'
