STORM PLAYS HAVOC

Mathers' woods on the old Paris Pike seemed to suffer the brunt of Sunday's electrical storm. Ralph Brookshire is dwarfed by the large trees felled. This scene was repeated in many sections over Nicholas County.

The rains last week were worth thousands of dollars to Nicholas County Farmers. Pastures, corn, gardens, and lots set in tobacco were hit extremely hard. The dry weather prevented fertilizer, especially nitrogen from becoming available to plants. In most cases, sufficient fertilizer was put under the crop for good growth and no side dressing will be necessary. Moisture was all that was needed to start plants growing again.

There has been more reports of aphids in plant beds this year than in the previous three or four years. This could be because we went to the field a couple of weeks later this year than before, and the aphids just found the tobacco in the beds rather than in the fields. The green peach aphid is our most troublesome tobacco aphid, and better than half of the reports seem to indicate these early infestations are caused by a different species. It could well be that 1966 will be a year when aphids will be more troublesome than usual. Should that be the case, we'd better take care of these insects before that tobacco gets knee high or taller. You might consider using the systemic insectcide Cygon. You spray it on the foliage, and it is carried in the sap stream to all parts of the plant. Diazinon, Malathion, or Thiodan can also be used.

Care of a New Rug

The fluff or fuzz on the surface of new rugs or carpets is natural with most yarns. This shedding is caused by loose bits of pile material left during manufacture and does not affect the life or quality of the carpeting. Just get busy with your sweeper; all the loose ends will eventually come to the surface. Carpets made of continuous filament nylon will not fluff or fuzz.

Sometimes a tuft will rise above the pile surface of a carpet or rug. This is called sprouting and is not a defect. Just use scissors to snip these high-rising tufts off even with the other tufts--don't pull them out.

The apparent change of color tone that sometimes appears here and there on a carpet or rug is called shading. This is caused by the pressure of feet pressing on the tufts in different directions, allowing light to reflect in varying degrees from the tufts in different areas. The better tufts are kept in order--going the direction of the pile, the less shading there will be. Shading is desirable in some decorating schemes since it produces an interesting effect on a solid-color carpet.

To help prevent matting caused by heavy traffic or furniture, rearrange the furniture occasionally to provide changes in traffic lanes. When carpet pile is crushed down because of furniture pressure or walking, try a hot iron over a damp cloth or a steam iron on the spots, being sure not to press down on the iron. Then brush the pile briskly.

MERCURY VAPOURS

by Warren R. Fisher

When all else fails, one has the weather to fall back on.

We can't help but wonder how many persons took to a ring side seat Sunday afternoon, viewed the great out-of-doors and watched Nature's greatest "fireworks" spectacular.

The awesome majesty of those streaks of lightning made one realize how puny man's attempts really are. In fact, if today's modern beds were not made so close to the floor, there were moments when we would have sought refuge beneath the nearest one. Whether the reflections from the water of Lake Carnico made the lightning seem greater we wouldn't know, but for our money, one of these storms will do us for a longtime to come.

One particular vivid streak which seemed to follow both theories concerning electrical storms, (that lightning goes from the ground up or that it comes downward from the clouds) and then along the ground and sky path for what seemed minutes, but we realize was just a portion of a second--it must have been the bolt that played havoc with Mathers' woods on the old Paris pike.

Of the various power companies serving the Nicholas County area, Harrison County Rural Electric seemed to carry the brunt, not that the others didn't have their share of troubles.

For the next several days we'll be eating what I left in the freezer section at the K-frame, since the power was off long enough for everything to thaw. Had I used the old bean for something besides a place to grow hair, we would have a selection in the menu. Wonder what it'll be for dinner tonight, chicken or? The steam did taste good fried in its layer of water ground corn meal Monday evening.

--MV--

Several have joined us in acknowledging that they have had those moments when they couldn't tell time, either. After some one had carried us "high" all week long, we learned they too have this difficulty. Enough said!

--MV--

The following we swipe from the Carlisle Rotary Club's poop sheet: "Nicholas County Dev. Corp. So many people ask! 'How do you fellows run the Lake Project' without any money and a lot of questions about other things. Fellow, I'll tell you, if it wasn't for a few hard working people it never would have been a success. I mean that if it depended on you and me it would be a flop.'

"And another thing! Why is it that so many people here grumble about the way things are going when in the counties that join us the people think it is the grandest project in central Kentucky. . .I don't hear you grumbling about the Health Center, Nursing Home, Hospital, Library and many other projects in which you had no hand. If you want to be a part of a community you have to participate in the activities. We can get nowhere pulling in opposite directions."

National Farm Safety Week

National Farm Safety Week cosponsored by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be observed July 24-30 this year, by Presidential proclamation. "Safety Is Victory Over Accidents" will be the theme of the Week, and its purpose will be to put a new awareness of safety procedures in the minds of the millions of people on American farms. Accidents kill more than 8,000 farm residents each year and injure and additional 700,000.

This year, emphasis will be on tractor safety and promotion of the SMV emblem--Slow-Moving Vehicle. It is a triangular emblem, highly visable within 500 feet, day or night, and is intended to be used on equipment traveling 25 miles per hour or less. Every operator of farm equipment should contact his county agent, or the Farm Department of the National Safety Council, 425 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, 60611, to secure information on where to buy his SMV emblem. Practicing safety during National Farm Safety Week can create lifesaving habits throughout the year.

Politicians, Not Business, Afraid of Prosperity

The year 1966 may be recorded in history as unique in the American economy.

It is the year that "experts" became afraid of prosperity. It is the year that economic growth has been viewed with alarm. It is the year of continued growth in spite of official efforts to brake the economy.

It is also year that major business firms are more optimistic than the political party in power.

According to figures released by United States government agencies, 10 of 17 key economic indicators attained all-time high records in the first quarter of 1966, and the others were running slightly under response 1965.

The gross national product of the United States is about 9 percent higher than in 1965. Personal income has increased the same amount. Retail sales have been 12 percent higher than during the first quarter of 1965.

Manufacturers have increased investment in plant expansion by 20 percent. Employment has increased 3 percent. New construction is up 7 percent.

On the negative side, automobile and steel output are down slightly. The drop in both of these indicators may be explained by factors not connected with the general prosperity, and both may exceed 1965 before the end of the year.

Consumer prices rose only slightly. The rise could be explained in terms of increased buying power of the individual and his pent-up readiness to buy.

Advertising expenditures have increased 10 percent, while the pessimistic are viewing with alarm, many American business men are increasing their selling effort and getting rich.
