

Canoe Race Planned July 3

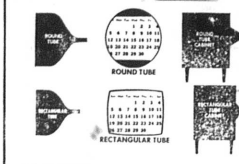

Lextrug—Down the big South Fork of the Cumberland River, where once swept the war and hunting canoes of Cherokee Indians, will come racing canoes on Sunday, July 3.

THE HAPPY WANDERERS, junior boat-432, Mr. W. R. Kingsolver and Mrs. Charles Watkins, unit leader.

Motorola 23" Color

Motorola's new rectangular picture tube is over 3" shorter than conventional round color tubes, as the tube cap on the back of the cabinet doesn't stick out so far. This means a Motorola Compact Color TV doesn't have a big gap between the cabinet and the wall.

Wouldn't you prefer Color TV with the full screen look... and compact styling?

Idea: To show the world what a magnificent area this wild, rugged, scenically beautiful section is for hunting, fishing, canoeing, camping—and just loafing. Or, if you like modern terminology, to show the recreation and tourism potential of this part of the U.S.

Ray Mitchell, recreation specialist with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service, says two civic clubs are sponsoring the race. They are the Oneida, Tenn. Kiwanis Club and the Pine Knot, Ky. Kiwanis Club.

The canoeists will be traveling south waters for centuries used by American Indians for hunting, fishing, trapping, migrating—and warping. And it won't be a piece-in-the-sky float trip either. You'll have to be a good canoe hand; you'll need strong arms and backs, and you'll better be prepared for some tough going. There are two rapids areas in the race, one at "The Falls" in Tennessee, the other, the famed Devil's Jump in McCreary County.

now available for rides into the wilderness. Additional camp facilities are available at Pickett State Forest Park Tennessee and Big Meadows Campground on Rock Creek at McCreary County.

In a rare display of bipartisan unity and bipartisanism last week, the House of Representatives approved, by a vote of 336 yeas to 2 nays, the bill, H.R. 14050, to extend and expand the Library Service and Construction Act.

The bill authorizes $700-million over the next five years in Federal aid for expanding library facilities and extending library services.

Under the first year's authorization of $184-million, Kentucky's libraries will receive $1,504,400 in assistance.

National concern for the development of good public library services was demonstrated by the 84th Congress which passed the Rural Library Service Act of 1936 authorizing funds to aid States in developing libraries in areas under 10,000 population.

The remarkable effect of the expanded library service is clearly seen in the figures Miss Little gave the committee when she told them: "The installation in libraries has jumped from 3,074,373 in 1952-53, the year before the bookmobile project, to almost 10-million or well over 3 books per capita for all of Kentucky in 1965-65.

facilities were made available for the first time. Kentucky has been an ardent participant in the library program with the Federal Government and has achieved remarkable results and success.

Mr. Robert H. Richie, Business Manager, Kentucky Department of Libraries, testifying at the hearing held on H.R. 14050 by the House Committee of Education and Labor, told the committee: "As a businessman not a librarian, I know of no other Federal program that, dollar for dollar, has contributed so much to the educational, cultural, recreational needs of America."

Belleville about August 1, or a month later than Eldorado. The fruit is large, firm, bluish-cone, jet black when fully mature, and has good flavor. A fruiting lateral usually produces 35 to 40 firmly adhering berries. Plants are productive in fertile soils—though not as vigorous as Smooth-skinned—and have proved hardy at Corvallis, Ore., central Ohio, Urbana, Ill., Belleville, and southward.

Thornless Blackberries

Lexington—Two new thornless blackberry varieties have been released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. They will be available this fall and might have usefulness in Kentucky areas.

Prof. Carl Chaplin, University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station horticulturist, says the varieties are Smooth-skinned and Thornfree. They are the product of variety, and moderately winter-hardy thornless varieties adapted to the region. Prof. Chaplin and D.P. Johnson, M.D. developed them. Plants have been distributed to nurseries for propagation. None are available from USA.

Smooth-skinned and Thornfree are recommended for trial in local markets and home gardens in the east-central United States. Canees of both varieties are trailing the year after planting, but are semi-upright thereafter. Plants do not sucker.
