MERCURY VAPOURS

by Warren R. Fisher

Thoughtless! We witnessed what we hoped was thoughtlessness and not malice, when an operator of a float on Lake Carlin, Sunday rammed a row boat containing four passengers.

Point One) the float operator was violating nearly all boating regulations, a craft without power has the right-of-way and this operator was as well as row boats. Point Two) the rules governing boating on Lake Carlin were made so that all could enjoy the lake, not just one "hot-rodder". The outboard motor size was set at 5 1/2 hp. per boat or float, and that does not mean putting an additional motor of any size on a float.

There must be a death carpenter in this area! Hardly a day goes by when one does not hear the remark, "I wish I could find someone to build a cabin at Lake Carlin!"

If there were no t.v., no radio, and no newspaper reports of the happenings to Jackson, Miss. march. How long would it continue? Perhaps we of the communications field are not being sensible! --M.V.--

(objectivity) Whether we are writing this column maintain an "objective view" is sometimes hard to determine. We think there are times when we are rather obtuse. --M.V.--

Cur Blue Grass Industries, Inc. is growing by leaps and bounds. Wayne Shumate, president, announces the formation of the new plant and leasing of the old electric steam radiator plant in Paris, for the purpose of manufacturing and surgical dressings. The initial operation will employ 75 persons with a growth potential of approximately 400.

The plant to be known as Blue Grass Industries of Kentucky, will be located about August 1, with a two million dollar contract. --M.V.--

Blue Grass Knitting, Carlisle, when in full operation will be equivalent to the total load of the City of Paris, for power requirements. Power lines and substations appear elsewhere in this issue.

against flea beetles, you need to treat the plants as soon as you are finished setting. This will protect the new plants against heavy flea beetle feeding until they overcome transplanting shock and start growing. As soon as new leaves begin appearing, they too need to be protected, so a second application should be applied when you see the new leaves. If you have used DDT before, you might want to use Sevin this time. Use 1 lb. of 50% wettable powder per acre. . . .

Start a Compost pile. If you start a compost pile, you'll have enough decomposed material by next spring to improve your garden, says Hubert Davis, U. K. Extension vegetable specialist. Pick a spot in your garden when it will be convenient to pile up waste vegetable matter to decay and compost. Leaves, old grass, weeds, have pulled or cut down, lawn clippings, sawdust, soil, and any animal manure can be used, but avoid keeping any diseased plants. Most garden soil will hold more moisture and be easier to work if compost matter is added, Davis says. . . .

CLOSING THE SWITCH--At the main entrance panel for Blue Grass Knitting, Inc., are from left, Wayne Shumate, Morris Whitley, Clifford Shumate, and Henry Peters. Also is expected the arrival of new machinery this week, which should enable the plant to begin operation the second week in July.

Conflicts often arise between parents and grandparents because each forgets that the other has certain rights which the other should respect. --M.V.--

Twenty & Forty-Five Years Ago

I say what I Think.

By S. V. Curran
Frankfort, Ky.--Political observers here are beginning to wonder if 1967 may be the year that both political parties in Kentucky will be in a position to elect a governor while Republicans Lou B. Nunn and Jefferson County Judge Mark W. Cookworth facing in a manner that could produce the first Republican primary in years.

Two Democrats have made formal announcements in the gubernatorial primary--Senate Majority Leader J. Edgar Buchanan of Shepherdsville, and former two-time Gov. A. B. Hittapay Chandler.

Key to the Democrat side will be the decision of former Gov. I. C. Combs whose name has been sent to President Lyndon B. Johnson for appointment to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals bench at Cincinnati. Combs has the endorsement of the entire Kentucky Democratic congressional delegation for the post vacated by the death of Judge Shackford Miller.

Combs is monomaniacal on his plans. However there are political observers here who hold the opinion that Combs' name would never have been put up for the judicial post by Congressman Carl Perkins if he had not known in advance that Combs had a strong chance of getting the appointment and that Combs would accept when offered. They reason that Perkins and the Kentucky delegation would not risk embarrassment in this situation.

Gov. Edward I. Breathitt has said that he will support Combs, his mentor, if Combs chooses to run. If not, Breathitt said he would give administration endorsement to a candidate in due time, however, the timetable is not yet set by the July Day date of four years ago.

Political observers here now consider Atty. Gen. Robert Matthews and J. H. Conner, Attorney Henry Ward as the two leading contenders for the administrative endorsement in the event Combs bows out of the race.

Former Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge, who was narrowly defeated by Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterhouse in 1955, has indicated strongly that he isn't going to let the Breathitt-Combs faction of the party win the nomination by default.

No one expects all of these mentioned to run for office. The general idea here is that some are jockeying for position and others are waiting for a place on the ticket an lieutenant governor. On the Republican side of the upcoming battle for the governorship, some observers have the feeling that Cook may have already been elected. Cook's name of his party when he opposed Gene Snyder for nomination for the Fourth District Congressional post in the past primary.

Nunn, brother of Lee Nunn, chief administrative assistant to Senator Buchanan, came within 13,000 votes of defeating Breathitt for the gubernatorial post in the one when he and his wife have another chance. Next year in the one when Republicans feel they have the best chance since Gov. Simon Willis ousted the Democrats in 1945.
