New Federal Gasoline Tax Refund

A new procedure for Kentucky farmers filing claims for the federal gasoline tax refund is now in effect.

Congress set the change in filing for gasoline tax refunds with the passage of the Excise Tax Bill by Congress in early 1965. Refunds for farm used gasoline covering the period after June 30, 1965 will be claimed as a credit on income tax returns. The credit was not available on the 1965 tax returns for calendar year taxpayers, but full credit can be claimed on the tax return for the taxable year 1966, which includes the period July 1, 1965 to December 1, 1966.

Beginning January 1, 1966, farmers were eligible for credit of six cents per gallon for lubricating oil used for non-highway farm vehicles.

The amount of federal refund is four cents for each gallon bought if the federal tax was paid on the purchase.

Officials point out that the federal tax refund is not related in any way to the Kentucky gasoline tax refund. About six cents per gallon is allowed on the state refund.

To be eligible for the state refund, a farmer must first obtain an application for a refund permit. There is a waiting period of 15 days after the application is approved. Form 51 is used when applying for a permit.

Farmers must maintain storage facilities on the farm marked "Refund Gasoline." The gasoline must be purchased from a gasoline dealer in not less than 50 gallons. It must be dyed and the dealer is required to issue an invoice to the farmer at the time of the purchase. All gasoline claimed must be used in direct production of agriculture commodities.

Farm Bureau worked diligently on the legislature to make both state and federal gasoline tax refunds possible.

Buyer, Be Wise, BEWARE!

By Robert Matthews, Attorney General

Deceptive -Sales Law Guards Consumer and Merchant Both

How often have you come out of a "Fire Sale" or "Going Out of Business" sale irritated and with the feeling you had been gypped?

To safeguard against the type of deception sometimes practiced by individuals holding such sales, the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office secured passage by the last legislature of Senate Bill 111, which this month becomes law.

The measure requires a person or firm desiring to hold such a sale to obtain a license and post a bond after first making a sworn statement setting forth: (1) the necessity for the sale, (2) a detailed inventory of the goods to be sold and that none will be added, (3) the identity of the person holding the sale, and (4) the duration of the sale, as well as certain other information.

In the future you, as a customer, can attend such a sale with confidence that the goods offered are the same as those handles prior to the sale and that no inferior merchandise has been shipped in.

And, if you are a competing merchant, you can be certain of the duration of the sale, the quality and amount of merchandise to be sold and the legitimacy of the sale.

4H Leadership Conference

By Jo Ann McKee

On Monday, June 6, a group of Nicholas County delegates left for a leadership conference at the University of Kentucky.

We registered at Patterson Hall between 10 and 11 a.m. We were assigned to Bowman Hall.

Some of the delegates were assigned to certain jobs such as group discussion leaders or group reporters for our U. N. discussions. This year we acted as the General Assembly in the United Nations each representing a different country. In our discussions each delegate gave his views as the way he thought his country would. Everyone wore name tags showing what country he represented. We had two meetings on the U.N, General Assembly.

On Wednesday and Thursday, we had special interest groups and college tours. Evenings at 7:00 we had inspiration hour and at 8:00 we had evening general assembly at the amphitheater.

On one occasion Dr. Richard Burwell gave a talk on Viet Nam; Dr. John Oswald gave a talk on the University of Kentucky.

Thursday we voted for state 4-H officers (1:00 to 3:00 p.m.)

On the last night we had a banquet in honor of our delegates and 4-H officers. We also had a farewell party.

Everyone wishes to thank the sponsors who helped make this trip possible.

have a right to expect your cooperation in these matters, even if you disagree with their policies. If you've kept up-to-date on child care information, they may want to discuss their problems with you and ask your advice; but the final decisions are theirs to make.

According to family life specialists, a good grandparent is -- first of all -- a well rounded person. Being a good grandmother or grandfather requires many interests, understanding of others, unselfishness, and a willingness to adapt to changes. If you have all of these, you have much to offer your grandchildren. If you don't, it isn't too late to change -- for your own happiness and for the sake of your grandchildren. No child should miss experiences with a grandparent who has learned to grow old gracefully.

Attending Camp

A Nicholas county youngster is one of 46 Kentucky children attending a two-week camp session at Camp Kysoc at Carrollton.

Linda Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hunt, Route 2, Carlisle, left Sunday (June 19) and will return home July 1.

The special session is for children with hearing impairments.

One of the seven Easter Seal facilities owned and operated by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, Camp Kysoc is the state's only resident camp specially built for children with physical handicaps.

Activities at camp include boating, barge rides, fishing, swimming in a heated pool, nature lore, cook-outs and campcrafts.

An estimated 350 children will attend Camp Kysoc during June, July and August. Contributions to the annual Easter Seal appeal help finance the operation of Camp Kysoc.
