Horn fly control can be as simple as self-feeding MoorMan's® Rid-Ezy® Medicated — granular or block. Less time, trouble and expense than with repeated spraying or back-rubbers.

COWS LOVE NEW PURINA GOLDEN BULKY

M. . .M. . .M. . .stands for more, more, more in cow talk. If cows could talk they would be saying more Golden Bulky because cows and growing heifers love the sweet flavor and armona of new Purina Golden Bulky. It's sweet because it's high in molasses. It's light and bulky. . .100 pounds fills six bushel baskets. It's a high protein ration fortified with Vitamins A and D. Use versatile new Golden Bulky to balance the grain in your milking ration, top feed for more milk or to preserve silage. Mixed 50-50 with corn it makes a wonderful heifer ration. Golden Bulky is excellent to feed when cows are on pasture. . .they will clean it up an say. . . M. . .M. . .M. (more, more, more).

PROTEIN, FAT, AND FIBER IS NOT THE ENTIRE STORY

Just because a tag shows less fiber, the same protein percentage and fat percentage doesn't always mean it will perform the same as a ration with the same tag or higher fiber. Carefully selected ingredients blended together in "just right" amounts to help your cows produce all that's in 'em plus accurate mixing and pelleting is needed. This calls for years of extensive research. Purina Checkerboard Dairy 16% has the selected ingredients. It is MICRO-MIXED, a registered process of the Ralston Purina Company, plus it carries years of extensive research behind it. Many local dairymen report increases of over 2,000 lbs. more milk per cow in their first year on Purina Checkerboard Dairy 16%. Try it today.

Touring Scenic Kentucky

By Marty Lovelace

Imagine launching yourself from a plane into empty space without a parachute—trusting only in your sky-diving ability to enable you to make contact with a fellow free-fall artist in mid-air, buckle on the chute he hands you, and open it in time to break your fall. It has been done, but we don't recommend it.

Whether or not any of us would care to test his nerve with such dare-devilry, we must certainly agree that it would be foolish for anybody to attempt a delayed free-fall from a plane without first making sure that his equipment was in good condition and functioning properly.

But strangely enough, many Americans who will quickly acknowledge the need for proper care of parachuting equipment, stake their lives every day on unsafe driving equipment. In a way, we are trusting our lives to something just as dangerous as an improperly-packed parachute every-time we take to the highway in a car that isn't in top operating condition.

For too many people speed along the highways without a thought to the condition of their tires, steering, brakes, suspension or other components that could cause accidents if they suddenly failed.

Actually, most mechanical or tire failure that causes accidents should, in a sense, be considered human error because periodic "detective work" by your service station operator could frequently eliminate the causes of such accidents.

Your local service station dealer is probably more familiar with the internal workings of your family car even than you are. You should look to him to make sure that your car is in safe driving condition throughout the year.

While your car is on the lift for its regular oil change and lubrication, this trained "danger detective" can check the brakes, steering mechanism, tires, electrical wiring, exhaust pipe and muffler and emergency brake linkage. And while the necessary under-the-hood service is being done, your dealer can check the brake fluid level, fan belt, cooling system, battery, carburetor adjustment, air and oil filter—all of the seemingly "little" things that could cause expensive and annoying trouble or—even worse—an accident. Motorists themselves often notice if brakes are "spongy," the muffler is noisy or tire wear is uneven. These or other danger signs are far too often neglected until it is too late.

This series is sponsored by the Carlisle Mercury to call attention to the many services available in Carlisle. Shop at home first.
