CRUSADE FOR CHRIST CAMPAIGN at The Carlisle
Christian Church
May 15-20
Nightly at 7:30 P.M.

BRO. GEORGE STANBERRY (formerly of Johnson City, Tenn.) is usually known as "one of the greatest Steevangelists of our day" will be the messenger.
He has been in the field of evangelism for over twenty years and literally thousands and have responded to his preaching. He preaches "messages from the shoulders" right into your heart. You'll love his powerful, dramatic vivid presentation of the Gospel just as thousands of others have. Bro. George will be bringing the morning message this coming Sunday, May 15.

Miss La Vern Karns, music director for the Kentucky Christian College, will be the pianist during this campaign.
She is one of the best pianists to be had.
You'll enjoy her playing, her arrangements of the Gospel hymns. We invite everyone to share in the great work we are doing.
You'll be glad you did!

—No. VA hospital benefits are free to veterans with service-connected disabilities and to veterans with non-service-connected disabilities who cannot afford to use non-VA hospitals.

Q—My niece, the daughter of a 100 percent disabled war veteran, is attending college under the War Orphan Subvention Act. My husband is also 100 percent disabled veteran, but the VA says our son is not eligible for this educational benefit. Why?

A—Children of living veterans who are rated 100 percent disabled because of a disability incurred in service are eligible. If your husband's disability was not incurred in service, your son is not eligible.

PLANS REVEALED for a $425,000 modernization program for Lee Junior College, Jackson, Ky. Shown is the architect's sketch for the proposed $750,000 Library-Science Building. The two-story Library-Science building will feature a two-level design. Modern laboratories for Biology, Chemistry and Physics departments, and a spacious area for Homemaking Arts department will occupy the first level. Second level will contain a 75,000 volume library.

The tremendous urge of urban dwellers to head for the woods has spawned an exciting new industry—468 factories for travel trailers, tent trailers, camper vans and other assorted mobile camping contrivances ranging in price from $350 folding tents on wheels to $500,000 customized vans.

All those who feel the yen for the wide open spaces, Changing Times offers this timely briefing on three of the most popular, practical and most attainable types.

The Tap-along Trailer: about 7 or 8 feet wide and 13 to 32 feet long, usually sold complete with all facilities, including furniture and draperies. It can be towed by the family car. Prices range from about $1,000 to well over $6,000.

However, lack of campground facilities, un-safety of "sanitary stations," and parking prohibitions are but a few of the disadvantages of trailers. In addition, some boulevards and parkways are strictly off-limits, as are most underwater tunnels and some superhighways.

A Camp on Your Truck:
This is a truck with a canted camper, is another form of camp on wheels.
Big advantage is that it can go places that a lowboy passenger car and trailer could never hope to. Prices run from about $2,000 for a small utility type "camp" enclosing the pick-up bed to more than $5,500 for a 15-foot-long, self-contained unit. Main disadvantage: less elbow-room than in many trailers, and the fact that you need to buy or rent a truck if you don't have one.

A Tent on a Trailer:
An overgrown suitcase mounted on a pair of wheels and bobbing along behind the family car, because it is light and easy to maneuver, the family car can pull one with no special gear except a light hitch. Prices begin as low as $460 and can run well over $6,000.

MINIMUM WAGE
Proposals to increase the federal minimum wage from $1.25 to $1.60 or $1.75 an hour and a recent Gallup double-time for overtime would send prices soaring and increase unemployment in Kentucky and throughout the nation.

Typical comments by Kentucky businessmen, Skinner said, is much concerned about the inflationary aspects of the proposed legislation. . . The Council has recommended a maximum increase to $1.60 an hour, as opposed to only 28¢ in fact.

Workers In Short Supply
L. J. Foster, Manager of the Department of Economic Security, at 300 Bowling Green, Kentucky, stated today that there is a serious shortage of all types of labor in the Lexington area.
