Pilgrim Days

In Pilgrim Days the little girls Wore gowns of woven gray So long they almost stepped on them When they went out to play.

They wore white kerchiefs round their necks And caps to hold their curls, They dressed as grown-up women dressed Though they were only girls.

In Pilgrim Days the little boys Wore black hats widely brimmed Shoes with buckles and flapping capes, Their little gray coats were trimmed.

Their cuffs and collars were very neat, (But just think) it must have been a bother, When one of them went out to play To be dressed up like father.

Oh, Pilgrim Days have come and gone And will not come again. For children dress like children now And not like they did then.
