income protection through price-support loans and domestic marketing certificates.

Wagoner pointed out the 1967 program has no provision for diversion or for diversion payment. He said the diversion features of the program were eliminated because farmers no longer needed to produce less than will be consumed in order to reduce the surplus.

Farmers may elect any of several options when they participate in the program, the chairman said.

They can plant all of their allotment acres and be eligible for price-support loans and domestic certificates.

They can plant up to 50 percent more than their allotment acres, store the excess production, and be eligible for certificates plus loans on the wheat not stored.

They can plant as little as 35 percent of their allotments and be eligible for the maximum number of domestic certificates in addition to a loan on their production.

The program still offers the opportunity to substitute other feed grains to allow the farmer the maximum opportunity to decide what combination of crops will be best for their operations. Two feed grains, corn and grain sorghum, will be included in the 1967 Feed Grain Program, Wagoner said. Farmers who participate in both the wheat and feed grain programs can elect to substitute wheat for corn or grain sorghum or may substitute corn or grain for wheat.

Barley will not be included in the Feed Grain Program in 1967, he said, but farmers who request a special barley base, which will be identical with the barley base established for the farm in 1966, may elect to substitute wheat or oats or all of their barley base. There will be no diversion on the barley base and no oat-rye diversion payment. The base will be adjusted on a State-by-State basis to allow for the difference in feed units produced per acre, Wagoner said.

Farmers who wish to participate in the wheat program should elect the option they wish to use, plant this fall to fit their intentions, and sign up in the program during the enrollment period which will be announced later, he said.

Full details is of how the 1967 Wheat Program will fit each farmer's individual situation may be obtained from the Nicholas County ASCS Office, the chairman pointed out.

sion fund by the time he is ready to retire, in the year 2010. This assumes that he has maximum covered earnings during his working career.

A considerable part of the $32,496 represents interest at 3.5 percent, accumulated on his payments over the 44 years.

The amount that he and his wife will collect after he retires, if they live the normal length of time, will be $33,183. On the other hand, if he is unmarried when he retires, he will only receive $19,704.

For the 45 or so young men in Nicholas County who are 21, if they start working now and live the usual span of years, they will be paying $1,462,000 into social security, counting interest, and getting back $1,493,000, if married.

The picture is quite different for a married man who is ready to retire this year. Because of the way the pension system was started, his payments amounted to $2,270 at most.

But benefits to him and his wife will total $26,050, or more than 11 times that amount.

Governor Connally Speaker For Democrat Fund Dinner

Texas Governor John Connally will be the Jefferson-Jackson Day fund raising dinner speaker Oct. 7 at Freedom Hall in Louisville for Kentucky's Democratic Party.

The announcement was made today by State Sen. Lawrence Wetherby, state campaign chairman for L.B. Sensatorial nominee John Y. Brown and the party's seven congressional nominees.

Tickets for the dinner, scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. (C.S.T.), will sell for $25 each and can be obtained by writing State Democratic headquarters, 100 Main Street, Frankfort.

Connally, who nominated President Johnson at the 1964 Democratic National Convention, will hold a press conference prior to the dinner. Coming with him will be his wife, Nellie.

Wetherby said the Oct. 7 event will be the party's only statewide fund-raising dinner in this fall's campaign, he said Democrats from all 120 counties are expected to gather for the rally.

Connally was secretary of Navy in President Kennedy's Administration, later resigning to run for governor. As a car passenger, he was seriously wounded when President Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas in November of 1963.

Now Democratic Caucus Chairman of the National Governor's Conference, Connally is running for re-election in this fall's Texas general election.
