The Grassroots Rumble

As one reads comment in the press from over the 50 states, the growing evidence that more and more citizens are getting tired, have tired of wanting something, they have tired to do something in all manner of political process.
The new wave generation of young people who have the political will to give a dollar and not to account for it as does the Federal official-born individuals who need special pleading to fill out the complex forms.
More and more people are getting tired of seeing the cream of their Typical cars are now into ads even in the best staffed newspaper. One has to carry an ad in a place in on Lane Carlin's ad, "Park the car in the garage, not on the street. Do it on the beach while you fish Carlisle's six-mile beach." Boy, the ad is a lot of beach. No beaching, though, the lake does have approximately 5-miles of shore.

House Committee Votes Social Security Increase
Congress is on its way toward providing greater Social Security benefits for the entire nation. After five months of arduous work, study, deliberation and debate, the House Ways and Means Committee this week approved a 200-page bill, The Social Security Amendments of 1967, providing for major changes in the Social Security Act.
