NO CREAM PUFF LEAGUE!

Anyone who considers the Southeastern Conference a "cream puff" basketball league, is thinking about the old days. There was a time in this district sport that the round ball court was just something tolerated to pass the time between football and basketball. Basketball, now, is big league... and big business in the SEC.

The four of the ten teams in the league have been at one time or other among the nation's top ten ranked teams this season. Kentucky, Florida, Tennessee, and Vanderbilt have all had a turn to that national ranking. Kentucky has fallen on bad times since its early season national ranking, and can hope to be no better than the 10th place team for the SEC title. Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Mississippi State and Florida are all still very much in the thick of the

Entomologists at U.K. Find Flaming Alfalfa

Lexington — "Flaming alfalfa to kill the alfalfa weevil!" Such a process, still virtually in the experimental stage, may put Kentucky farmers in a better position to save their first and most valuable cutting.

Dr. Bobby Paas, University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station entomologist, Prof. Ted Smith, agricultural engineer, and Dr. W. C. Templeton, a zoologist, think so.

The "flaming" equipment consists of commercially available burners mounted behind a tractor, and pointed to put a hot flame onto alfalfa stems. Liquefied petroleum (in a tank usually mounted behind the tractor) and alcohol of the burner is in the fuel. The rig is similar to that used in some states for flame-weeding in row crops.

Dr. Bobby Paas, University of Kentucky forestry entomologist, thinks the system has a good deal of promise. He has worked two years with Smith and Templeton. Their test "flame" acreage is available for re-
