Growing family call for added room?

Add more comfort, too, with electric heating!

Building an extra room? Build in the extra comfort of electric heating without overloading your present heating system. Thermatically controlled electric heat gives you wall-to-wall nominal heat. No flame, no fumes — no ducts — no moving parts to repair or adjust — no fuel to order and store.

So for further information about this supplemental heating — or about possibly converting your entire system — call your local KU office. In these modern times you owe it to yourself to learn more about electric heating — the way of today.
