Mail Box Improvement Week in Progress

The post office department has designated the week of May 15-20 as Rural Mail Box Improvement Week, George Roberts, acting postmaster, stated this week.

He urges all rural patrons to check the condition of their mailboxes for solid upright supports, painting if rusty or otherwise necessary, and name labeling. Name labeling is important to the regular carrier, especially to the substitute carrier who may not serve the route too frequently, and very helpful to others to locate or identify the residence of a family or individual.

"Our community is much behind some of our neighboring counties in the percentage of neat, well kept, clearly name-labeled mail boxes", postmaster Roberts said, and continued, "I hope that our rural patrons will take this seriously and see that their mail boxes are in commendable condition."

A good way to see if a box is properly located is for the patron to drive his own car to the box and see if it can be reached easily from the right window. If it can, chances are the box is pretty well located.

Wesley U of K Honor Graduate

Ralph Wesley, Carlisle, was graduated from the University of Kentucky with the three highest academic honors that the University awards any student.

When the 100th graduating class received its diplomas last week at Memorial Coliseum, with 1,496 students receiving degrees, Wesley was graduated in the Honors Program, With High Distinction, and awarded Departmental Honors.

Only five students were awarded Departmental Honors. The faculty selected Wesley for Departmental Honors in Economics.

Wesley was one of the 21 students to be graduated in the University's Honors Program. "To graduate in the Honors Program a gifted student, who is one of relatively few, is selected in his freshman year on the basis of high school grades and American College Test" according to the University. For four years he must enroll in the Honors section of courses and, along with other requirements, maintain high academic average.

To be graduated "With High Distinction" requires a student's attaining a grade point average of 3.6 for at least three years of work.

In addition, Wesley has been honored three times on Men's Award Night, held annually, as one of the "outstanding men for leadership and scholarship" on the UK campus. He was a Student Congress member, Intra Fraternity Council Representative, President of Junior Intra-Fraternity Council and on the Campus Editorial Symposium Committee.

He is a member of several honoraries: Keys, sophomore; Lances, junior; Eta Sigma Phi, classical; and Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha, debate.

Economic Adviser to the Kentucky Kernel, the daily campus newspaper,

Wesley also did reporting and writing for the paper.

For four years a member of the University varsity debate team, Wesley represented UK in more than 200 debates winning numerous tournaments and trophies. In 1964, at Emory University he received the Albert W. Barkley "Debater of the South" award.

Last week Wesley was awarded a $1,000 per year scholarship to Duke University Law School. He has declined this and will enter Medical School to prepare for medicine.

Wesley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wesley, was valedictorian of the Nicholas County High School Class of 1963.
