

The command module of the Apollo spacecraft contains almost 15 miles of wire, enough for 50 average homes, but uses only about 2,000 watts of electricity, less than the power required by the oven in an electric kitchen range.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Dentist's Prisoner

To have her new dentures checked, Mrs. K. paid a visit to dentist. There she got a rude surprise. The dentist locked his office doors, pocketed the key, and demanded that she pay her overdue bill.

After a war of nerves that lasted for half an hour, she finally did pay up. Later, however, she filed suit for false imprisonment.

But the court "imprisoned" the dentist prostrate in court. "She was free in fact at any time, just by paying me what she owed," the court said. The dentist was held liable for taking the key from his own hands. The court said he had no right to use such forcible methods to collect his money.

"False imprisonment" may befall you even if you are nowhere near an actual prison. The essence of the matter is an unlawful limitation on your freedom of movement. The law places a high value on the right of every individual to go where he pleases.

Even if your freedom is limited for a short time, you may still have grounds for complaint. Thus, a woman who had been taken home from the market, gratefully accepted the ride, but when she got home she found the door locked. Despite her protest, he kept on driving until he had taken her to a hotel beyond was able to get out of the car with some degree of danger.

When she sued the man for damages, a court ruled she had indeed suffered false imprisonment. The court said she had been confined to the car, and the car's continuing movement, from leaving the market to returning home, was the cause of her confinement. Nevertheless, not every interference with your freedom is false imprisonment. Take this situation: A shopper had just entered from a department store when a clerk hurried outside after her. Pointing at the horse she was carrying, he asked:

"Did you buy that here?" The woman said no and then, without being asked, pointed to the clerk. Adversely, she incidentally gave her department. But she had suffered false imprisonment in a store.

As many of the other trustees do, he takes his job very seriously. The men are brought by bus from Ladroneg and seven in the morning and work until four in the afternoon.

"Salty" specific job is to keep the pool around the Floral Clock clean and in the correct time. If you happen to be in the vicinity of Frankfort on a rainy day, it's a fascinating experience to watch "Salty" and one of his helpers clean the pool. This involves temporarily emptying the two dozen fish.

The Commonwealth furnishes food for the fish, which include varieties of goldfish, carp, bluegill, and catfish, but they prefer just plain white bread. "Salty" dally trawls four or five slices of bread into pieces, throws them in the pool and the fish eat their favorite lunch while he eats his lunch.

"Salty" is also responsible for raising the money that is used in the pool to the Department of Public Information. During the height of the tourist season it amounts to quite a bit—sometimes as much as $70, and averages around $50. But it all goes for a worthy cause—as the inscription "Coins from the Floral Clock pool are used for the benefit of children in state child care institutions."

"Salty" contributes his share to the beauty of the Commonwealth and these youngsters who can't help themselves, by maintaining the Clock.

A colorful packet of materials, offering suggestions on making Kentucky a "cleaner and greener land" is available free of charge from the Division of Cleanup and Beautification, Department of Natural Resources, Frankfort, Ky., 40601.

Included is a poster illustrated by an animated cartoon, a two-color bumper sticker, a "Don't Be a Litterbug" button, and various brochures.

Another item is an "anti-litter calendar for year round activity" which suggests specific activities for each month in the year. Suggestions for November and December include:

Arrange a litter alert in schools. At a given time, students pick up any litter they find, wherever they happen to be and place it in proper receptacles. Publicize the event.

"SALTY" AND THE FRESH-WATER FISH—Charles "Salty" Riley, right, has a fishy job every Friday. He is in charge of cleaning the pool of the Floral Clock in Frankfort and this entails temporarily transferring two dozen fish to temporary tanks while the pool is drained, cleaned and refilled. "Salty" also gathers the coins tossed into the pool by tourists for the benefit of children in Kentucky's child care institutions. "Salty" transferred the fish from the pool for their winter vacation at the Fish and Wildlife Game Farm, Frankfort.

Clean-up Job

Charles "Salty" Riley has a "fishy" job every Friday from early spring to the last of November at Frankfort, Ky. Riley is a trustee of the Ladroneg Grange Refractory. He's just one of the many men who work on the grounds of the Capitol in Frankfort. But his is a special job, maintaining the fish and floral arrangements at the Floral Clock.

Arrange for special anti-litter demonstrations between halves at high school and college football games and other sports events. One student might be dressed as a litterbug—and others chase him away with great fanfare. Suggest that "anti-litter" reminders be broadcast over the public address system on such occasions.

We'll Play As A Team; Will's

By Allen Waugh
The atmosphere of the "thrill of victory" was through the hearts of every player, coach, cheerleader, fan, and sports writers after their first win of the season over Irvine 64-55 Saturday night at Irvine.

Shaking hands, back patting and even a few tears filled the Nicholas dressing room after the victory.

A cheering bon load of players and cheerleaders pulling "big" number added to the excitement of celebrating what could be raising the curtain on one of the most successful seasons in Nicholas Co. History.

Sudden silence prevailed on the crowded bus as Larry Willis rose to the floor and said these words, "We may be Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors or Seniors but we play as a team," Willis, who is playing his final season, added much to the winning of the game by contributing what this reporter would call 100% of his ability in the clutch moments of the game.

Teamwork and teamwork is what it takes to win ball games," said a smiling coach Jack Maiste entering the victory celebration of the winning dressing room after the battle had been fought and won by Nicholas Co.

Playing as a team is the important part of basketball. Games can't be won without it. Five men go on the gym floor and it's up to five players to give 100% to playing the game. Saturday night everybody gave 100% and this is why the victory was brought home by Nicholas Co.

There are Seniors, Sophomores, Juniors, and Freshmen who will have 22 more games to do the best of their ability to win. But what ever class you in, Willis' comment, "We'll play as a team," stands out over all the rest.
