Burley Referendum Ballot's Return Urged

Harvey Wagener, Chairman of the Nicholas County ASC Committee, today reminded all eligible voters in the Burley referendum to return their ballots to the ASCS county office by not later than March 1, if they have not already done so.

Mr. Wagener said if the ballots are mailed they must be postmarked no later than March 1.

If any eligible person did not receive a ballot, he should request one immediately by calling or visiting the ASCS county office.

The vote is on quotas based on acreage allotments for the three years 1968, 1969, and 1970, with price supports, and a non-allocated industry of those voting must favor quotas in order for them to be in effect, Mr. Wagener said.

Co-operative Executive Says Look Beyond 'Price Tag'

Over Fifth of Female Population Employed Outside the Home

New York, Feb. 24--

An increasing number of women in Nicholas County have been entering the labor force in recent years.

The latest figures indicate that no less than 20.6 percent of the total female population over the age of 14 are now employed outside the home.

By way of comparison, as recently as 1960 the percentage was 20.7. The census taken at that time showed a total of 643 local women in the labor force.

Most of the increase is attributed to married women, particularly those over 40, returning to the labor force. Now that their children are growing up, they find that they are able to discharge their household duties and still have enough time left over to take outside jobs, either part-time or full time.

One effect, it believes, would be that the country would experience an acute labor crisis overnight and that a good deal of our national prosperity would vanish.

Another would be that many households would feel the financial pinch and would have to realize their mode of living to compensate for the loss of income, which is a substantial item in many families.

the National Industrial Conference Board and others.

In Nicholas County, on the basis of their overall findings, the proportion of working women is greater than it has ever been.

The 20.6 percent who are currently in the labor force in the local area is somewhat lower, however, than the 27.4 percent average in the United States as a whole.

The surveys show that age is no longer a barrier to employment for women. More than half of those between 45 and 54 are now in the labor force and, of those between 55 and 64, about two-fifths.

With about 35 percent of all wives bringing home paychecks these days, the Institute of Life Insurance poses the question: "What would happen if all the wives now working were to quit and devote their full time to home-making."

Pilot Program Initiated At Nicholas High School

In June of 1967 14 home economics teachers in Kentucky were asked to attend a three-week workshop at Morehead State University. The purpose of the workshop was to develop a pilot program in foods in home economics classes during the 1967-1968 school year.

Mrs. Martha Taylor, Nicholas County High School home economics teacher, was one of the 14 asked to attend. She has taught such a course during the first semester.

The program is designed to help Home Economics IV girls to broaden their knowledge and develop skills in foods. The students studied units in foods which they felt would be most useful to them in the future.

The first semester the girls worked entirely in foods. Some of the items prepared included: cream (tomato juice and pickles), cakes and decorations, pies, candy, homemade ice cream, yeast breads, salads, puddings, vegetables, soups, baked Alaska, and different types of meats. The girls also had a cook-out at Lake Carlisle. In addition they studied table decorations, flower arrangements and silver.

Nine senior girls are in the Home Economics IV class. The girls are: Janice Wagner, Sharon McKee, Brenda Jawlings, Pauli Gausse, Phyllis Hardwick, Diana Stone, Margaret Sims, Janice Spigars, and Judy Russell.

For their semester exam the girls were to show how much they had learned. They were to plan, prepare and serve a complete meal in two hours.

Judy Russell said, "I feel that I have learned more through the meal preparation included, caring (tomato juice and pickles), cakes and decorations, pies, candy, homemade ice cream, yeast breads, salads, puddings, vegetables, soups, baked Alaska, and different types of meats. The girls also had a cook-out at Lake Carlisle. In addition they studied table decorations, flower arrangements and silver."
